

Loan Guarantee Program Urged By U.S. Official

Lockheed Case Cited But Not Backed By Arthur F. Burns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board urged Congress today to set up federal loan guarantee machinery "as a protective umbrella" to shelter such ailing firms as Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Burns made the suggestion at a hearing of the Senate Banking Committee which is considering an administration request for $250 million in federal loan guarantees which Lockheed says it needs to avoid bankruptcy.

While proposing a broad solution to problems such as Lockheed's, Burns was careful in his prepared testimony to avoid saying he was for or against specific aid for Lockheed at this time.

"It is certainly no part of my purpose to suggest that Congress delay its decision about Lockheed," Burns said.

"My aim is rather to recommend that your committee, with Lockheed fresh in mind, address itself to the question of devising more general standards and procedures to govern credit guarantees in possible future emergencies," Burns went on.

Burns said the financial collapse of the Penn Central Railroad last summer brought the country to the brink of economic chaos which was avoided, he said, only by Federal Reserve Board action.

Provides Board

Burns said that under his proposal a loan guarantee board would be established with the secretary of Treasury as chairman and the secretary of commerce and the Federal Reserve Board chairmen as members.

Guarantees of private bank loans up to $2 billion, he said, would be made only at the President's recommendation and would be governed by tough restrictions.

Burns said guarantees should not be used to protect large firms from failure, "or to bail out bad management, or to shield creditors or shareholders from the consequences of unwise investments."

He also proposed that Congress have a veto power over guarantees.

A similar proposal by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., would provide up to $5 billion in emergency loan backing.

Rolls Royce

The administration has recommended the $250-million loan guarantee for Lockheed, the nation's biggest defense contractors, to ease it through a financial crisis brought on by the collapse of Britain's Rolls-Royce Ltd. which was building jet engines for Lockheed's TriStar air bus.

Banks, airlines, the company and its suppliers already have invested $1.4 billion in the commercial equivalent of the Air Force C5 supercargo plane.

William H. Moore, chairman of Bankers Trust Co. which has invested in the plane, has urged the committee first to approve the Lockheed request, then the large fund recommended by Burns.

Fred J. Borch, board chairman of General Electric Co., said Tuesday the British government caused Lockheed's financial crisis and should be asked to bail out the American firm and its air bus project.

Blames British

He said the British government influenced the selection of Rolls Royce engines for the air bus by providing long-term government financing to U.S. airline purchasers of the plane on terms U.S. engine manufacturers could not match.

Then, he said, the British government refused to honor penalty provisions of the Rolls-Royce contract when the British firm collapsed in February. The penalties, he said, would have given Lockheed enough cash to switch to an American engine without seeking government loan guarantees.

Emergency at Outagamie Airport

Endangered Plane Lands Safely

BY WILLIAM KNUTSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An Air Wisconsin Beechcraft 99 carrying nine passengers and two crewmen, including the national president of Boy Scouts of America, made a successful emergency landing on a foam-coated runway at Outagamie County Airport about 11:15 a.m. today.

The 15-passenger, twin engine, turbo-prop plane, its left set of landing wheels stuck at a 90-degree angle, skidded safely to a stop after circling the airport about an hour in an attempt to use up as much fuel as possible.

There were no injuries. Fire trucks from the airport, Appleton, Grand Chute and the Town of Greenville were standing by as were several ambulances and rescue vehicles along with Outagamie County policemen and airport officials.

Scout Officials

Three Boy Scout officials were on board, including Norton Clapp, national Boy Scouts president, who spoke to businessmen and industry leaders at River-view Country Club this noon. Clapp also is chairman of the board of Weyerhaeuser Corp., Seattle, Wash.

None of the passengers were from the Fox Valley. Most were businessmen. They included Clapp, Robert F. Bauer and W. E. Corder, all Boy Scout executives; Willard Jesse, Wilmington, Del.; Bert Looney, Mankato, Minn.; Ray Smith, Minneapolis; Roy Heising, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Harvey Lehr, Minneapolis; and William Jenuleson, Cleveland, Ohio.

The airplane was enroute to Outagamie Airport from Central Wisconsin Airport near Mosinee. Its first stop on a flight from Minneapolis.

Richard J. Schmidt, 37, Air Wisconsin senior pilot, radioed the Appleton control tower after taking off from Mosinee, reporting that there appeared to be a problem with the tires or wheels. The possibility of a tire blowout was mentioned.

Wheels Locked

However, on one of the three low passes the plane made over the Appleton control tower, it was discovered that the left set of landing wheels, although they had come down, appeared to be locked at a 90-degree angle.

The decision then was made to have Schmidt and his co-pilot, Stanley Ellis, continue circling the airport in an action in Vietnam, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

900 pounds of fuel the plane still carried. This, it was learned, was a precautionary measure to reduce the chance of fire.

The Appleton Fire Department was summoned at 9:58 a.m. Twelve Appleton fire fighters rushed to the airport with the heavy duty rescue van, a pumper and a car.

Foam Spread

The airport crash-fire truck crew, about 15 minutes before the emergency landing, laid down about 1,200 feet of foam, 1½ inches thick, on the 7,000-foot, north-south runway.

The plane was called in shortly ahead of time because the foam was starting to dissipate.

With the left set of wheels still locked sideways, the plane slid along the foam, traveling

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. Gary L. Westphal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Westphal of rural Benduol, Wis., has died today in an action in Vietnam, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

Oshkosh when he was born at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital. Shortly after, they moved to between Waupun and Beaver Dam and then to Marshfield where he spent most of his life. His parents still live in Marshfield.

A younger brother, John Froehke, lives at 629 Oak St., Neenah, and his grandfather, the Rev. A. Froehke, was pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Neenah from 1899 to 1935.

"They know each other, trust each other and know what the other thinks," said a Pentagon official in describing the Froehke-Laird friendship dating to the fourth grade at Marshfield.

But it was more than friendship that caused Froehke's selection, Pentagon aides said. "Laird doesn't want to start all over in mid-term," said one source. "He wanted someone who knows where we've been the past two years and where we are going: who knows Vietnamization and the other problems."

The sources said Froehke was reluctant to accept the post but finally agreed when Laird said he needed him.

Froehke came to the Pentagon as assistant secretary of defense for administration when the Nixon administration took office in January 1969. He brought a reputation as an able administrator and helped put together Laird's management team.

In the summer of 1969, he began supervising and bringing military intelligence activities under Laird's closer control.

In his new job, Froehke will contend with numerous problems still troubling the Army, including two My Lai cases awaiting trial, allegations of other war atrocities, racial and drug problems, withdrawal from Vietnam and the move toward an all-volunteer force.

It won't be Froehke's first experience with the Army. He served with the infantry in Europe during World War II and was discharged as a captain.

After the war, he and his wife, the former Nancy Barnes of Marshfield, shared a house with Melvin and Barbara Laird in Madison. The future defense chief was a state senator at the time and Froehke was on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin law school.

Froehke helped with Laird's congressional campaigns while carving out his own successful career. He joined Sentry Life Insurance Co. of Wisconsin in 1951 as a general counsel and rose to executive vice president before coming to the Pentagon.

A balding, 48, Froehke plays tennis almost daily at nearby Fort Myers, Va., usually teaming with Assistant Secretary of Defense Roger T. Kelley or Draft Director Curtis Tarr.

The Froehkes have four children ranging in age from 14 to 22 and live in a modest 2-story brick house in suburban Bethesda, Md.

As Secretary of the Army, Froehke will receive $42,500 a year, a $4,500 increase over his present salary.

Disclosure of War History Promised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says a secret report on the Vietnam war will be disclosed publicly through congressional hearings, even if newspaper publication of the document is blocked by the courts.

Mansfield said the people have a right to know the details of the way American involvement in the war began and escalated.

The Justice Department Tuesday won a federal court order halting temporarily The New York Times publication of a series of articles based on the 47-volume study of the war.

The order is effective until 1 p.m. Saturday, with a hearing scheduled Friday on the administration request for a preliminary injunction against further publication of accounts of the development of U.S. policy into 1968.

"Of course the court decision must stand," Mansfield said. "But regardless of what the decision of the court is, hearings will be held."

He said the hearings might be held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee or the Armed Services Committee.

"If they don't, I will, and it will be laid out," said Mansfield, chairman of a subcommittee on Far Eastern affairs.

Mansfield said he had discussed the matter with Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont.

senior Senate Republican, who of Defense Melvin R. Laird had agreed the public should be fully informed about the report on the development of U.S. policy into 1968.

The majority leader said the hearings would be "for the purpose of laying the story out before the Congress and the people in as comprehensive a manner as possible."

Mansfield said it is his position that if the courts prevent the Times from publishing the balance of the findings reached in the Pentagon study, the Senate hearings will make the material public.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., has said he will ask for a Foreign Relations Committee inquiry. There is also a possibility of joint hearings conducted before that panel and the Senate Armed Services Committee.

But the task of obtaining a report from the administration per, he said, "What that might prove a difficult one for whatever panel conducts hearings."

Symington complained in the Senate Tuesday that Secretary

sonable scale of values have long since belonged in the public domain."

In Washington, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said that the secret study would be publicly disclosed through hearings on the U.S. involvement in the war, regardless of the outcome of the court case.

And the Justice Department acknowledged that the FBI has been asked to study possible criminal violations in regard to the Times' publication of what the government says are top secret documents.

"The FBI investigates all allegations of federal criminal violations and is doing so in this case," said John W. Hushen, chief Justice Department spokesman.

Lawyers for the Times argued that the government's move against the newspaper was a case of "classic censorship" and appeared to be the first time in the nation's history that a newspaper was being restrained by a court from publishing an article.

The Justice Department charged in court that the publication "seriously interfered with the conduct of our foreign relations" and could "result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

In an editorial in today's editions, the Times characterized the government's action as "an unprecedented example of censorship" and said, "The Times will continue to fight to the fullest possible extent of the law what we believe to be an unconstitutional prior restraint imposed by the attorney general."

The Times said it would not have gone ahead with the series "if there had been any reason to believe that publication would have endangered the life of a single American soldier or in any way threatened the security of our country or the peace of the world."

By the publication, the Times said, the question was raised once again "of the government's propensity for overclassification and misclassification of documents that by any reasonable scale of values have long since belonged in the public domain."

The Times began the series Sunday based on the text of the 7,000-page Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Neenah-born Robert Froehke Picked as Army Secretary

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a handful of men in the Pentagon call Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird by his boyhood nickname, "Bom." One is Robert F. Froehke.

Through his 16 years as a Wisconsin congressman, and now as Pentagon boss, Laird has returned to Froehke for trusted advice and counsel. Now he has picked his old and close friend to be secretary of the Army.

President Nixon approved the choice Tuesday, nominating Froehke to succeed Stanley R. Resor, a Johnson administration holdover who announced his resignation last month after guiding the Army through six of its most troubled years.

Age-18 Majority Backed in Senate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — All privileges and responsibilities, except voting, now legally permitted for or required of adults would be extended to 18-year olds under provisions of a bill passed by the Senate Tuesday by a 23 to 10 vote.

In a separate action the Senate concurred in and sent to the governor for signature a bill calling for a state-wide referendum in November, 1972, on the subject of granting the vote for state and local elections to 18-year olds.

The Republican majority managed to postpone action on a resolution already passed in the assembly, that would add Wisconsin's name to the list of states ratifying a federal constitutional amendment that also would permit the 18-year old vote in local, as well as federal elections.

The age of majority bill would permit males to marry at 18, allow all 18-year olds to drink hard liquor anywhere adults are now permitted to do so, and sign contracts, among other things.

The drinking provision removes the privilege of communities setting higher ages for consumption of intoxicants. A community's only choice would be to grant or not to grant licenses for the sale of liquor and beer.

Although the alcoholic beverages provision of the bill gained a two-thirds vote of support, it aroused considerable controversy and prompted the taking of two separate votes on a motion to delete the provision from the bill as senators became nervous.

When the bill finally passed, after a day-long debate, the only revision had been to delete a provision that would have cut off free education for the handicapped at 18, rather than the present 21 years of age.

Not Mature
Opponents of the measure who had in committee gained a vote to kill the bill argued that the youth are not mature enough to handle all the responsibilities the bill provides.

Sen Myron Lotto said some provisions of the bill were "very, very bad." The laws the bill would change, he said, took many years to be written and should not be changed precipitously. Lotto predicted that the youth who might oppose his stand would appreciate his willingness to take an unpopular position, particularly unpopular since delegations from the Young Republicans and Young Democrats meeting here Tuesday were in the galleries.

Sen Raymond Heinzen R-Marshfield told the senate not all 18-year olds want the rights and responsibilities that would be granted, and predicted they would, in the future thank those who opposed the bill now.

Reducing the age of majority would bring the law into conformity with reality, Sen. Jack Steinhilber R-Oshkosh said. He said that young people do not know what their place is in society and under the law and the bill would be helped to define it.

Supporting the measure were Sens. La Fave, Lorge, Martin and Steinhilber, opposing it were Sens. Lotto, Knutson, and Chilsen.

Bill Supported
The voting age bill that was adopted on a 30 to 2 vote, does not grant the 18-year olds the vote in state and local elections, but only provides a referendum on the subject. The bill, according to Steinhilber is necessary to bring the change in voting age that might be granted earlier by the amendment of the federal constitution, into conformity with the state constitution.

Democrats supporting a lowering of the voting age charged that the bill is a delaying measure to postpone the 18-year old vote until the spring of 1973 at the earliest if a referendum passes.

Steinhilber said that the federal amendment would take precedence if it is ratified first by 38 states and that the bill is still necessary for state constitutional requirements.

Vote at Age 18 Likely Before Wisconsin Acts

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The pending United States constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 years for all elections is likely to become effective by the ratification acts of other states before the legislature of Wisconsin approves it.

This week the legislature of Missouri approved the amendment and became the 33rd state to do so. The consent of three quarters of the states, or 38, is required to make the new federal law effective and it now appears likely that such a majority will be recorded reasonably soon.

But meanwhile, the question is tied up in the Wisconsin legislature in a stubborn quarrel between the Democratic assembly and the Republican state senate.

Democrats pushed through the federal amendment in the lower house weeks ago, but the senate has held up action, evidently at the request of assembly Republicans who have asked for a revision of the rules to apply to voting rights by college students.

The senate weeks ago had passed with ease a bill proposing tests of the residency claims of young people enrolled as students in communities other than their own. But the measure was rejected by the Democratic majority in the assembly, thus leading to the stalemate on the voting age ratification.

Republicans have protested that without some controls in the law, students in college towns who are not true residents there and do not intend to live there after their college years will be able in some instances to take over the rule of local government and to make decisions on such questions as public buildings, bonding, and others that will become long-term liabilities for the permanent local population.

Democrats countered with a milder student eligibility test bill, but the Senate evidently is not prepared to accept it.

Rep. Earl McEssy of Fond du Lac, one of the leaders in the drive to assure that students vote in the towns of their origin unless they can prove that they are bona fide residents of their college communities, has moved each Tuesday for a month to take up the Senate student voting bill. Yesterday, as on previous occasions, the Democrats easily turned aside his demand.

McEssy said that in Madison supporters of the Democratic presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern are advising young men and women who came from other states to study at the University of Wisconsin to register in the capital city to permit them to vote for McGovern in the presidential primary election here next spring.

State Department Invites Clifford to Speak on POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — After release, but also a halt to U.S. military and economic aid to the Saigon government. U.S. policy makers figure an abrupt aid halt would topple the Saigon government, a main Hanoi war theme.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers Tuesday voiced doubt about Clifford's proposal. "There is no validity to the comments that Mr. Clifford has made" insofar as present U.S. officials know, Rogers told a news conference.

"It seems to me that if Mr. Clifford has any information that is serious from the other side, he has the responsibility to convey that information to the government," Rogers went on.

Very Surprised

"We have asked to talk to him to see what basis there is for this statement . . . I am very surprised that he made it," Rogers said. "The North Vietnamese have decided undoubtedly that they are going to hold these prisoners to try to achieve political objectives—and in effect they are using them for ransom payments," Rogers said.

"Obviously the United States, although we have tremendous concern for the prisoners, can't lose sight of our national purposes and we can't absolutely abandon our national objectives to pay ransom."

Meanwhile, in a Washington Post interview, North Vietnam's chief negotiator in Paris indicated Hanoi wants not only a U.S. pullout as a price for prisoners, but also a halt to U.S. military and economic aid to the Saigon government. Mayors Pick Henry Maier As President

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee, Wis., was selected by a nominating committee Tuesday to become president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors for 1971-72.

He will succeed Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia. Maier now is vice president of the conference.

Formal election was to be today, the closing session of the 38th annual meeting, which has attracted about 400 mayors and 600 other municipal officials.

New trustees include Roman Gribbs, Detroit, Mich.

Advisory board nominees include Herschel I. Lashkowitz, Fargo, N.D.

Under the conference's constitution, four past presidents will remain members of the executive committee. They are Mayors Richard J. Daley of Chicago, Terry D. Schunk, Portland, Ore., Jack D. Malster, San Leandro, Calif., and Tate.

Debris Thought To be Wreckage Of Jet Transport

HONOLULU (AP) — Search vessels have picked up debris believed to be from an Air Force C135 jet transport which apparently crashed last Sunday into the Pacific Ocean between American Samoa and Hawaii.

The Navy said the destroyer Edwards and the British merchant ship Amalric late Tuesday collected pieces of metal, helmets, seat cushions and cabin lining that has been positively identified as coming from a C135. Neither the ships nor search planes have found any survivors.

The search resumed at dawn today.

Twenty-four persons, including 12 civilians, were aboard the plane which disappeared on a 2,227-mile flight from Pago Pago to Hickam Air Force Base near Honolulu. The eight crew members and the plane were assigned to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio.

Air Force officials in Washington say the plane was on a classified mission. The aircraft is of the type used to monitor French nuclear tests in the South Pacific. The most recent French test was conducted last week.

Albuquerque Again Placid

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —After two days of violent disorders that left 15 persons wounded by gunfire and damage in the millions, calm has returned to this desert city of 250,000.

After the last violent incident took place Tuesday, a police report showed arrests during the disturbances totaling 630, including 17 juveniles.

Fire Chief Ray Kuhn estimated damage from fires—many of them he said were touched off by firebombs—would run to $3 million or more. Losses from looting, broken windows and other acts of vandalism were expected to total at least another $1 million.

Police and National Guardsmen ordered into the city by Gov. Bruce King were kept busy Tuesday answering reports that young people were gathering in various sections, but none of the reports proved true.

Force Reduced

The 1,000-man National Guard force called into the city was reduced to 600 Tuesday.

In the last major incident, early Tuesday, two guardsmen were injured when their Jeep left the road in northeast Albuquerque. They said their vehicle was forced off the road by a car carrying three men and a woman.

Hospitals reported treating a total of 40 persons, including those hit by bullets, during the disorders and a volunteer medical aid team set up by University of New Mexico students said it had treated 50 persons, most for cuts from broken glass.

The disorders were sparked Sunday when police attempted to arrest a group of young people at Roosevelt Park for public drinking.

After a violent confrontation with officers, a crowd of some 500 youngsters marched into the city center area, stoned police headquarters, then retreated to the park before riot police. Looting, arson and other damage marked the route.

Monday brought a mass rally at the park and new confrontations with police and National Guardsmen at the park and the university campus.

Tuesday, city and state officials were involved in a heated argument over responsibility for control of the disturbances.

Charles Barnhart, chairman of the city commission, charged that a delay by King in calling in the guard permitted unnecessary violence and he said the appearance of Atty. Gen. David Norvell and Lt. Gov. Robert Mondragon at the Monday rally helped touch off more violence.

Barnhart said he resented Mondragon's statement at the rally that "police brutality is factual." Mondragon replied he had referred to incidents prior to the disorders. Norvell criticized Barnhart for not being present at the rally.

King said there was no delay on his part in sending in the guard, that he acted two minutes after receiving the request from city officials.

He said he had been uneasy about the absence of a request for guard aid and had been considering ordering the guard to duty without a request from the city.

Grumman has not said it intends to declare the contract

F14 Builders Anxious to Reduce Over-Run in Costs

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Grumman Aircraft Corp.—trying to cut its losses on the Navy's F14 swing-wing jet fighters—says it would be "very appropriate" for Congress to stop funding until the plane cost-overrun problems are settled.

The surprise company statement was issued Tuesday after House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert announced he will move to cut the $2.9-billion weapons authorization bill today or Thursday.

Hebert told the House the money could be restored later this year if the Pentagon delivers a satisfactory solution to the F14's $2-billion cost-overrun problem.

"We are not surprised by (Hebert's) action," Grumman said in a brief statement. "We consider it very appropriate."

The company said it is pleased by congressional and Pentagon studies of F14 cost problems and, "We have confidence in the wisdom of their views."

But Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said cutoff of the production money will help clear the way for renegotiation of Grumman's contract to help cut its predicted future losses.

"It'll be renegotiated for more money to produce fewer airplanes," Pike said.

Defense officials told Hebert's committee that if Congress does not approve money for 48 more planes by October, Grumman could declare its present contract breached and thus open for renegotiation to cut its losses.

Grumman has not said it intends to declare the contract breached. And a spokesman declined comment when asked if such a move is what the company has in mind.

The Pentagon says the total F14 overrun—including missiles, engines, the electronic navigation system and other components not made by Grumman—is now $2 billion above the original cost estimate of $8.3 billion for 710 planes.

One congressman has estimated contract renegotiation could boost the F14 cost per plane to nearly $15 million from the present $9.8 million—but fewer planes would be bought to keep the total cost at or below $10.3 billion.

Curbing Drinking Drivers Can Become a Party Game

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Here's an idea for ending your next party.

Everyone gets a plastic bag and a small, glass tube containing chunks of solid chemical.

You stick the tube into the bag and blow through the tube until the bag is inflated. If you've been drinking, the chunks in the tube will change colors.

The one whose breath causes the most chunks to change color has been drinking the heaviest.

In Charlotte and Mecklenburg County, you can get this party paraphernalia without charge from the state-owned liquor stores.

The program, administered by the Research Triangle Institute for the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration at a cost of nearly $2 million, is part of the institute's Charlotte-Mecklenburg Safety Action Project. Through it the institute hopes to come up with recommendations for effective nationwide plan to prevent auto accidents caused by drinking drivers.

Liquor sold in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County comes in brown bags displaying charts of the mathematical chance of having a wreck per ounce of liquor consumed.

And soon the liquor stores will be giving away with each purchase a "B-4-U Drive I-Cator," a small, round scale to help drivers figure their chance of having a wreck based on the amount of liquor consumed, how long it took to drink it and body weight.

More than 65,000 of the breath-testing kits have been distributed to the liquor stores and 100,000 slide graphs have been ordered.

Jack Miller, the project director, says that since the project is only a couple of months old, it is too early to judge its effectiveness. But he is convinced it will be more effective than simple antiliquor campaigning.

"The antialcohol approach has been unsuccessful so far," he said. "Let's recognize the fact that people drink, and go on from there."

The project also includes newspaper, broadcast, billboard and magazine advertising which plays heavily on the theme "Let's keep our friends alive."

Parliamentary Footwork Keeps Menasha in COG

MENASHA — Mayor James Adams' move to pull the city out of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) was thwarted at least temporarily Tuesday through adept parliamentary maneuvering by Third Ward Ald. Sumner Parker.

Adams' resolution, which called for the COG pullout and the establishment of a new tri-county regional planning agency incorporating the best aspects of COG and Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, deadlocked the city council on three separate votes.

Unable to break a 6-6 tie because of a Parker motion for reconsideration, the mayor called a special council meeting for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in an effort to affect a COG withdrawal before a June 30 deadline.

Single Plan Agency

Although Adams has expressed unhappiness with COG's services in the past, he defended his move Tuesday as an attempt toward achieving a single planning agency for Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet counties.

A planning agency for at least those three counties must be established if the area is to be eligible for federal aid grants. Current alternatives are the proposed merger of Northeastern and COG, now stalled, or the formation of a new planning agency, the solution proposed by the Adams' resolution.

"If we withdraw from COG now, by January 1, 1972, the issue will be forced and we will have a new planning agency," Adams told the council Tuesday.

Jan. 1 is the date when temporary federal certification of COG as the Fox Valley's regional plan agency expires.

June 30 Deadline

According to COG by-laws, Menasha must give notice by June 30 if it wishes to withdraw at the end of the year. If necessary, Menasha could apply to rejoin by Dec. 31.

"They (COG) can't keep you out. They will have to service us anyway," Adams said.

But Parker contended that a new planning agency would not be so easy to come by.

Winnebago Will Drop Sunnyview

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County board Tuesday voted to phase out operation of Sunnyview Sanatorium and relocate patients over the next six months. The process becomes effective July 1.

The measure was introduced before the full board by the institutions committee. The committee hoped by the action to affect an overall cost savings to the county, which has jointly run the unit with Fond du Lac County, for the care of tuberculosis and geriatrics patients. An out-patient clinic is also run in connection with the unit.

The committee argued that the county was faced with two alternatives for the sanatorium. One was to authorize the phase out as the board did Tuesday, or construct a new building. The cost, to renovate or build, based on estimates made last year, were between $250,000 and $300,000. Winnebago County has continually lost money running the sanatorium.

40 Transfers

The phase out period, beginning July 1, will involve the transfer of 14 TB patients and 26 patients in the geriatrics section. The geriatrics patients will be transferred to the Pleasant Acres skilled nursing home, according to the plan.

Five of the TB patients were referred to Sunnyview from Winnebago State Hospital. The patients will be returned to the state hospital for placement. Future referrals, according to the plans submitted by the institutions committee, will be eliminated because the state hospital is in the process of building its own TB cottage.

The five TB patients who require institutional care will be transferred to accredited sanatoria in Brown and Sheboygan counties.

Sunnyview will close next Jan. 1.

The committee said it acted in compliance with the building and supplies committee of the Fond du Lac County board, which will bring a similar proposal before its board.

Kaukauna Adopts Rates for Sewers

KAUKAUNA — The City Council Tuesday night adopted a resolution setting special assessments for installation of sanitary sewer, water main, storm sewer laterals, water laterals and storm sewers along various streets.

Rates established for work on W. 10th Street amounted to $15.10 per lineal foot for two lots and $11.20 per lineal foot for remaining lots for sanitary sewers, $280 each for sewer laterals, $3 per lineal foot for water main, $90 each for water main laterals and $175 each for storm sewer laterals.

Rates for work on Laurel Lane range from $9.80 to $13.70 per lineal foot for sanitary sewer, $205 for sanitary sewer laterals, $3 per lineal foot for water main, $90 each for water main laterals, $1 per foot for property owners who would have been affected by the Gerry Klarer and Michael Swiontek, 4th, and George Simon, 3rd. Opposed were Robert Vonbracke and Richard Verhoeven, 1st, Earl Luedtke and Lloyd Kloehn, 2nd, James McDaniel, 3rd, and Aloys Peters, 5th.

Membership Change

Aldermen adopted an ordinance revising membership on the board of review. The two aldermen were replaced by the deputy health officer and building inspector. It often was difficult for aldermen to take time from other jobs to sit on the review board, it was pointed out.

A board of education request for additional fire hydrants at Victor Haen School and the high school was referred to the manager of the electric and water department, the fire chief and board of education members for discussion and recommendation.

A claim for damages by Mrs. Ruth Finger who claimed she fell on a public walk and suffered injuries was referred to the city insurance carrier and City Atty. Donald Green.

Green was asked to prepare a legal opinion on whether the city could levy a special assessment for services rendered by the street department in hauling away large amounts of residue accumulated by a property owner through extensive repair work usually done by contractors.

Offer of Land

An offer of the Green Bay-Mississippi Canal Co. to sell land to the city for park purposes or bird and wildlife sanctuary was referred to the finance committee for study. The sale offer included the assessed value of the land plus elimination of 1971 taxes on the property.

The legislative committee was instructed to draft an ordinance prohibiting practicing of golf in city parks or other recreational areas. Action was taken after aldermen learned of several near accidents as a result of this practice.

An ordinance revising electrical, heating, ventilating and air conditioning codes as recommended by Building Inspector Harold Loeser in line with state recommendations was adopted after no objections to revision at were made at a public hearing.

Revival of Court Study Sought

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey has been asked to breathe new life into an independent court study in Outagamie County.

Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton, chairman of the county board's judiciary and enforcement committee said during a meeting Tuesday that he had explained to Lucey, by letter, that a proposed court study by the Institute of Judicial Administration would strengthen a statewide court probe by the Governor's recently appointed blue ribbon committee.

The New York based institute, which would have started the local court examination this month, withdrew its offer after being informed by Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows of the State Supreme Court that such a study would be a waste of time and money in that it would only duplicate efforts of the blue ribbon committee.

Huseby said he has not yet had a response from Lucey. If support for the study is not found in Lucey's office, Huseby said, local efforts to revive it might be abandoned. Huseby has charged that the independent study, for which the county board had appropriated $2,500 as its share of the cost, was stymied from someone within the county. He has not publicly stated who he believes was responsible nor has he identified his source of the information.

Different Study
Huseby, in his letter to Lucey, said the task force study apparently will "quite different than the study our committee had proposed. The purpose of our court study was not to suggest an additional court in our county, but to study present procedures and have a professional organization suggest how to expediate the present courts' case loads."

Huseby emphasized that "the judiciary and enforcement committee... does not feel we need another county court. We feel that another court in our county would be far too costly to the state as well as to the county."

He added, "However, we do feel that some of the present judges' procedures should be updated as far as scheduling and methods of running their courts are concerned."

Lucey was informed that the three county judges and Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell had indicated support for the institute study.

The judiciary and enforcement committee met Tuesday with Judge Edwin Wilkie, state court administrator, who was in Appleton to address a county officials' seminar.

No Firm Answers
Wilkie, committee members felt, declined to give firm responses to most questions asked him. He said he was not in a position to judge whether the institute study would provide any advantages over the court study to be undertaken by the blue ribbon committee.

Wilkie said, however, that he was "very much of the opinion" that any independent study should be incident to and coordinated with a statewide study. Changes in local court structuring, Wilkie said might better be delayed until County Judge Raymond P. Dohr and Parnell retire. Both reach mandatory retirement age next year.

Growing County
Wilkie declined to say if he felt there were problems in Outagamie courts, although he said Outagamie is among the growing urban counties where litigations are on the rise. He said there is a "substantial load" of criminal, traffic and family court work here.

Two reserve judges are paid $50 a day plus expenses to help county judges keep current on juvenile, criminal and traffic cases. Both judges were hired on a temporary basis on Wilkie's recommendation.

Wilkie saw more hope for solving court problems in long range proposals than in immediate, localized action. He lauded the creation of Lucey's blue ribbon study committee as a big step toward a needed "major overhaul of the Wisconsin court structure."

Packers' Tom Miller Is Optimistic

Tom Miller, assistant general manager of the Green Bay Packers, touched on his organization's finances and gave a synopsis of team prospects Tuesday at a convention of Wisconsin county officials.

Miller told the group, most of whom appeared to be avid Packers backers, that professional football teams, "just as local governments," are beginning to feel a financial squeeze. The annual seminar for clerks of Circuit Court, registers of deeds and county treasurers, is being held at the Conway Motor Inn.

"Our expenses are going up the same as the cities," he said, while noting that professional football faces possible player strikes next year.

Miller said that last year the Packers had a profit of $1,339,000. Green Bay's Lambeau Field will be filled to its 56,000 capacity, with a waiting list of 17,000.

"But still," he said, "we could lose all that in just four games, if there would be a strike."

He said rising expenses come from staying in the "best hotels, eating the best foods, having one of the best press boxes in the country, and spending $5,000

on uniforms."

He said rising expenses come from staying in the "best hotels, eating the best foods, having one of the best press boxes in the country, and spending $5,000

on uniforms."

Thiel reported that sporting equipment, valued at $673, was taken from the home.

just for the plane trip to a Chicago game.

The Packer official said prospects of a strike have increased because younger players are more "restless and independent," than older teammates. "They don't take the game to heart," he said.

Pointing to changing values and life styles, Miller added that the younger ones "don't think the coach is superior any more, and they don't particularly like to take instruction."

"What they don't realize is that a football team cannot be run by majority rule as other organizations," he said, and the audience applauded.

He also said although the Packers would like to see all their players well groomed and smartly dressed, the office does "go along with them to some extent."

Prospects for a championship?

Miller said: "Our team should be very representative of our division." (The central division, including the Packers, the Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions and Minnesota Vikings, has been dubbed the League's "Black and Blue" division for its tough and grinding tactics.)

He said the Packers are "well situated" in the offensive line, with all young players of "high average abilities."

The defensive line is as good as any in the league. Miller said next year the Packers' two over-270-pound tackles, Bob Brown and Mike McCoy would be taxed. Boykoff said this would generally not work a hardship to the remaining spouse because exemption rates for spouses will be stabilized at $50,000.

He told treasurers that the major administrative change in the bill would come with the centralization of rule-making power within the Department of Revenue. This would permit a greater degree of control over county administrators working with inheritances.

He also said the bill would make it unnecessary for a judge to rule upon every inheritance that takes place.

Under the bill's provisions, the only official work that would have to be done would be the filling out of a form.

This measure would retain much of the decision-making process at the local level.

He also pointed out that the bill would actually bring in five per cent more revenue to the counties along with a great amount of time and savings in manpower.

And in this way, he said, "tax dollars will be saved for other county projects and the publicity for probate reform will be answered."

League Stresses Care for Ponies

Ponies presented as doorful when trying to remove old prizes or during raffles at dead hair.

summer activities often may be condemned to neglect and inadequate care, according to Mrs. Frank Parsons, president of the Animal Welfare League Inc. in Neenah.

Many times winners of ponies and other animals do not have the proper knowledge for facilities to care correctly for animals. As a result the "prizes" suffer from inadequate medical treatment, care and sometimes simply from malnutrition.

Recently a Shetland pony was picked up by the Animal Welfare League Inc. after owners reported they were unable to care for the animal. The winter coat of the pony had not been clipped and the animal had not been curried, combed. Hooves badly needed trimming and the pony was infested with lice and suffering from worms.

A veterinarian and a blacksmith were hired by the Animal Welfare League Inc. to care for the animal and later it was placed with owners screened by the League.

The Animal Welfare League Inc. is opposed to any drawings where animals are awarded as prizes, Mrs. Parsons said, but listed the proper "Do's" and "Don'ts" for those who have received animals for prizes.

- Do provide shelter from the wind, rain and sun.
- Do feed a balanced ration and water at regular times.
- Water should be provided at least three times daily.
- Do groom regularly.
- A after midnight Friday and re-curry comb is immensely helpful.

New Head of Urban League Involves Blacks in Politics

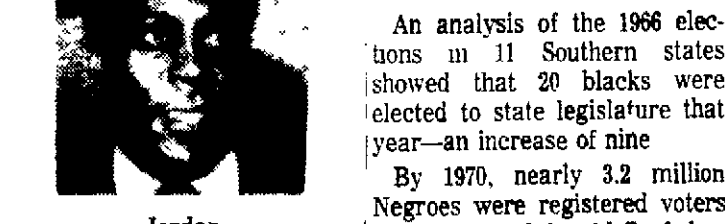

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — While Whitney Young devoted his entire life to the Urban League, his successor as executive director of the National Urban League has used his talents to involve blacks in politics.

There is taking place in the South a metamorphosis in black leadership," Vernon E. Jordan Jr. said Tuesday after he left his post as director of the Atlanta-based Urban League to become executive director of the National Urban League.

Hot Pants for Women were barred this year from the Royal Ascot enclosures, so Joe Dalyland wore them himself when attending the races with a friend, Delia Whittaker. (AP Wirephoto)

In accepting the post, Jordan said that while there appears to be an indifference to blacks on the part of the Nixon administration, he hoped as a lawyer to carry the case for black equality to Washington "and not only be heard, but get results."

Jordan

Asked how his program as executive director of the league might differ from Young's, Jordan responded with praise for his predecessor, then added: "My approach will be my approach: whether that will be interpreted as radical, moderate or conservative will not be for me to decide."

He said he would work for a consistent dialogue between the whites and blacks of the nation. Jordan said he would not take over his Urban League duties until the end of the year, so he could fulfill a commitment to lead a campaign to raise $10 million for the college fund.

The United Negro College Fund helps support 36 black colleges with 40,000 students.

Jordan, who headed the black voter drive from 1962 until 1969, was a leader in obtaining funds from private foundations to help finance registration of black voters in the South.

Although Negroes will not always win the political races they enter, Jordan said in a 1970 address to Tuskegee Institute, "by reason of their candidacy, politics will never be the same."

He often credited the candidacy of blacks with "contributing to the political maturity of blacks."

Rights Through Politics
"His philosophy is that Negroes should gain their rights through politics," commented Harmon Perry, a veteran black Atlanta newsman who covered many of Jordan's activities.

Perry recalled that Jordan scored one of his greatest triumphs when in 1969 he promoted the nation's first caucus of black elected officials from throughout the South to increase their effectiveness in office.

Jordan's black voter drive left a firm and permanent imprint on the South.

An analysis of the 1966 elections in 11 Southern states showed that 20 blacks were elected to state legislature that year—an increase of nine.

By 1970, nearly 3.2 million Negroes were registered voters in the states of the old Confederacy. Ten years before, 1.5 million blacks were registered.

The impact of black political power, says the 6-foot-4, 230-pound Jordan, will be "our most effective and respected weapon."

Mathematical Complications
"Generally speaking, Southern politicians are not experiencing a change of heart so much as they are realizing the mathematical implications. They are adding, subtracting and figuring percentage."

Born in Atlanta on Aug. 15, 1935, Jordan completed his high school education in Atlanta and earned degrees from DePaul University and the Howard University School of Law.

As a civil rights leader, he has also served as Georgia field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He has held fellowships at Harvard's Institute of Politics, the John F. Kennedy School of Government and the Metropolitan Applied Research Center.

He is married to the former Shirley M. Yarbrough. They have one daughter.

House Ignores Threat of Veto

$5.5 Billion Bill For Development Passes 275-104

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, ignoring threats of a Presidential veto, has completed congressional action on a $5.5-billion economic development bill.

Rep. William H. Harsha of Ohio, top Republican on the Public Works Committee, said after Tuesday's vote the measure is "totally and wholly unacceptable to the administration" and predicted it will be vetoed.

However, White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren, said, "I would not forecast what action the President will take." Warren added, however, the administration had "indicated our reservations about the public-works section."

That section, which would provide $2 billion in federal grants for public-works projects in areas hit hard by unemployment, was put into the bill by Democrats as part of an overall program to shore up the economy and provide quick jobs.

The $5.5-billion measure also would extend for four years the Appalachian and other regional development programs and for two years a program to help localities bolster their economies through loans and other construction assistance.

The House vote was more than enough to override a veto by Nixon but the measure did not gain a two-thirds margin in the Senate.

The House passed the measure 275 to 104; the Senate vote was 45 to 33.

Priests Censure Cardinal

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of Chicago priests has voted to censure John Cardinal Cody for what it believes is his failure to represent the needs of his priests.

The Association of Chicago Priests, representing 900 of 2,400 priests in the Chicago Archdiocese, voted 144 to 126 at a meeting late Tuesday to censure the cardinal and five auxiliary bishops from Chicago for their "silence" at the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in Detroit in April.

Spokesmen for the ACP said they believed this was the first time in the American history of the Roman Catholic Church that priests have taken such strong public opposition to Church hierarchy.

"At Detroit, it was clear that the majority of American bishops never felt responsible to the priests whose lives they were determining, or felt they would have to answer for their actions when they returned from that meeting," said the Rev. Laurence Maddock, chairman of the ACP coordinating committee and a leading supporter of the censure resolution.

Disappointed in Coverage
"We were keenly disappointed that press coverage showed no indication that our own archbishop and his auxiliaries were taking the floor to plead for openness to the rising aspirations of priests."

An ACP spokesman said the censure by the unofficial, voluntary association has no effect on Cardinal Cody's standing in the Church. He said the censure "is only a matter of public reprimand."

Many younger priests reportedly were angry that the bishops failed to report on a social survey showing that a sense was meant to "express a sadness at the disunity and fragmentation represented in the ACP documents."

The Rev. Carl Lezak, one of Chicago's most outspoken priests, said in support of the censure resolution: "We are at that point and time in our Church where we must show our bishops and our people where we stand. This is a time to lead. Our bishops have not led."

Defends Bishops
Bishop William E. McManus, one of those censured by the ACP, told the ACP meeting that much of the material gathered from priests in the Chicago Archdiocese was presented at Detroit.

"We not only presented it, but we defended it," McManus said. "We feel that the evidence is so clear that the cause is resolved, that the proposed statements of censure are unjustified and should be rejected."

Cardinal Cody did not attend the ACP meeting, but sent a statement which said his ab-

Wisconsin Will Seek Federal Clean Air Funds

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The chief of Wisconsin's Air Pollution Control Bureau says the state is ready to ask the government for $638,000 to help battle bad atmosphere.

Brooks Becker, addressing the State Pollution Control Advisory Council, said Tuesday his bureau feels the Wisconsin Natural Resources Department should adopt air quality standards as strong as those of the federal government.

The funds application to be submitted to Washington, he said, includes $400,000 for monitoring devices, which local governments and colleges would operate.

Government air officials, he said, have rejected Wisconsin's suggestion for having a central monitor headquarters in Madison.

Douglas Evans, a Becker aide, said a monitor network should be operating next year.

Southeastern Wisconsin, the Superior area, Grant County and the Green Bay area figure high on the regions having special need, the council was told.

Court Stops Publication

how the United States became involved in the Indochina war. It said the analysis was ordered by then Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967.

In the three published installments, the series dealt with clandestine warfare against North Vietnam before the Tonkin Gulf incident, the timing of the decision to bomb North Vietnam and the decision to use American ground troops for offensive action.

Before the third installment appeared, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell requested the Times to voluntarily halt publication of further material from the study, but the newspaper declined. The next move was in court.

In seeking the restraining order, the Justice Department cited a law which makes it a criminal offense for any person "having unauthorized possession" of classified documents to communicate, deliver or transmit such documents "to any persons not entitled to receive it."

The law provides for a maximum punishment of 10 years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. Judge Gurfein, in his first day on the bench after having been sworn in last week, heard arguments by Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael D. Hess, 30, for the government and Prof. Alexander M. Bickel, 46, of the Yale Law School for the Times.

In his restraining order Gurfein said:

"The questions raised by this action are serious and fundamental. They involved not only matters of procedure, but matters of substance and presumptively of constitutional implication as well."

"I believe that the matter is so important and so involved with the history of the relationship between the security of the government and a free press that a more thorough briefing than the parties had had an opportunity to do is required."

Possible Harm
Gurfein said he granted the order "because in my opinion any temporary harm that may result from not publishing during the pendency of the application for a preliminary injunction is far outweighed by the irreparable harm that could be done to the interests of the United States government if it should ultimately prevail."

In refusing to require the Times to surrender the documents, the judge said: "I do not believe that the New York Times will wilfully disregard the spirit of our restraining order."

He said he intentionally expressed no opinion on the merits of the case but noted, "I believe the matter is brought in good faith by the United States."

Both the American Civil Liberties Union and the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee made statements and asked to be heard as friends of the court at Friday's hearing.

Judge Gurfein instructed them to file briefs and reserved decision on the request to be heard.

"The New York Times is performing a vital public service by publishing those reports," said ACLU Executive Director Aryeh Neier in a statement. "The main purpose of a free press is to inform the American public about the actions and policies of its government. The Times is performing the historic function of the press."

South Vietnam Secures Saigon For Big Parade

Armed Forces Day Plans Get Major Troop Protection

SAIGON (AP) — More than 10,000 South Vietnamese troops have launched one of the biggest security operations around Saigon to protect a parade Saturday in honor of Armed Forces Day, military sources said.

Militiamen sweeping through the Rung Sat special zone to the southeast, a frequent staging area for rocket attacks on the capital, intercepted one group of infiltrators Tuesday. The Saigon command said 11 Viet Cong were killed in the clash 16 miles southeast of the capital. No South Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Military sources said Viet Cong troops and underground agents have moved from other provinces into areas adjacent to Saigon. South Vietnamese forces have uncovered a new infiltration route from the Mekong Delta province of Kien Tuong through Long An Province southwest of the capital, and the 15th Viet Cong Sapper Battalion has moved from Tay Ninh Province 55 miles northwest of Saigon into an area just south of the capital, the sources said.

First Since 1967
The parade Saturday will be the first in Saigon since Nov. 1, 1967, and it appears to be another move in President Nguyen Van Thieu's campaign for reelection next October. Such parades were discontinued after the enemy's big Tet offensive in February 1968, but Thieu now apparently wants to demonstrate that Vietnamization is working and the capital is secure.

Some U.S. and Australian forces will participate in the parade, the South Vietnamese command said. Two battalions of South Vietnamese paratroopers will be standing by to go into action should trouble break out.

Thieu also has ordered amnesty, to be announced on Armed Forces Day, for some 4,000 military deserters and petty criminals deserting with South Vietnamese combat units as "coolies of the battlefield."

The amnesty will apply to the members of the 10 so-called "dirty battalions," each composed of about 400 men who serve as frontline laborers and ammunition bearers but carry no weapons and are kept under guard at night. The amnesty will return the men to full soldier status and restore their rights as citizens.

Appleton police are investigating the theft of a tape deck and mounting bracket, valued at $100 from an auto owned by Robert Sprague, 1832 N. Linwood Ave. The incident occurred sometime Monday, when Sprague's auto was parked in a parking lot on Locust Street. Entry into the auto was gained by smashing a vent window.

An accidental alarm at the S. C. Shannon Company, 1726 Ballard Rd., sent five units from the Appleton Fire Department out at 10:50 a.m., Monday.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad was called out for possible heart victims on two occasions, Monday.

At 1:09 p.m., they were called to 1805 S. Jackson St., when James Dombrowski collapsed while cutting down a tree. He Kenneth L. Schmidt, 21, 427 S. Matthew St., Kimberly, suffered cuts and abrasions to the hand and knees, when his motorcycle collided with an auto driven by Nicholas R. Kraft, 29, 835 E. Commercial St., Appleton.

The accident occurred at Wisconsin Avenue and Meade Street, about 3:15 p.m. Monday. According to authorities Kraft was traveling east on Wisconsin and Schmidt south on Meade.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad was called out twice Sunday afternoon. At 1:40 p.m. they answered a call to 1707 W. Spring St., and transported Mary Campbell, 18, from her home to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The squad was called out again at 11:40 p.m. to 215½ E. College Ave., and transported Mardell McCormick, 57, from her home to St. Elizabeth's Hospital after she became ill.

CHILTON — A route 3, Kaukauna man is in satisfactory riding his bicycle on the lawn condition after a motorcycle accident at 1:45 a.m. Saturday morning, was reported at about 5:30 p.m., John J. Kobussen told Calumen County traffic police that he was traveling north on Brant St. two-tenths miles south of County Trunk KK when he hit holes in the road and lost control of his motorcycle. He went into the ditch and through a barbed wire fence.

Kobussen was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital with fractured ribs and clavical and possible concussion.

FREEDOM — Michael R. Romanesko, 18, route 2, Kaukauna, sustained facial cuts and complained of chest pains, following a one car accident on Vandenberg Road, in the Town of Freedom.

The accident occurred at about 12:30 a.m. today, when the southbound Romanesko auto left the road on the west shoulder, hit a driveway, flew through the air, and landed on its wheels in the ditch.

About $500 damage was reported to the 1962 model auto.

An Appleton youth was injured Monday afternoon in separate bicycle accidents.

Robert Kettleson, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kettleson, 1115 N. Mason St., sustained cuts to the head and complained of severe back pains, when his bicycle struck a log along the road in Plamann Park.

The youth was reportedly riding his bicycle on the lawn near the east entrance of the park at the time. The accident was reported at about 5:30 p.m., and the youth was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Higher Fines For Prohibited Parking Seen

Committee Backs New Schedule of Penalties in City

Higher fines for parking in prohibited areas and a bigger penalty for postponement of paying fines will face motorists in Appleton if recommendations of the public safety committee are adopted.

The city at present levies a $1 fine for all parking ordinance violations, which increases to $2 if the violator waits more than five days to pay.

The committee is recommending keeping overtime parking fines at $1, but increasing the penalty to $3 after five days. And for parking in prohibited areas such as crosswalks or too near fire hydrants, the fine would be $5 initially and increase to $10 after a 10-day wait.

Ald Beverly Wieckert (11th) suggested making the penalty higher for parking in prohibited areas, pointing out that such violations often pose a safety hazard in addition to the inconvenience caused by ordinary overtime parking. Raising the fine would discourage violations and give policemen more time for other duties, Mrs. Wieckert reasoned.

Hope for Promptness

The committee agreed to increase the penalty for putting off paying fines in hopes that it will encourage promptness. But Ald Delmar Schwaller (16th) convinced the committee to extend to 10 days the amount of time for paying the higher fines before the penalty takes effect.

Some persons might have difficulty finding $5 within five days, he explained. Allowing 10 days to pay "gives a chance to get through a pay period," said Schwaller.

The committee also approved Police Chief Earl O. Wolff's request to have the city clerk advertise for bids on printing new ticket forms. Wolff asked for the new forms earlier but the request was put off until the committee agreed on the parking fine policy, which will require changing the design of the tickets.

In other business the committee recommended denying a papers be kept separate from proposal by another committee to create a cycle lane on E. Newberry Street by painting white stripes on the roadway rather than building sidewalks. Wolff advised the committee that the proposal would create hazards and encourage pedestrians to violate the law by walking in the roadway with their backs to traffic.

The committee decision, running counter to earlier action by the streets and sanitation committee, further complicates a situation arising from property owners' resistance to paying sidewalk assessments. Ald Glenn Thompson (13th) is caught in the crossfire between the owners objecting to the assessments and other constituents who object to the lack of sidewalks.

Madison VFW Post Suspended

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Madison Veterans of Foreign War post composed mostly of Vietnam war veterans which calls itself the "peace post" was suspended Monday from the national VFW.

The action was taken by the Wisconsin VFW commander, Ara Fish, who said it had been approved by VFW Commander-in-Chief H. R. Rainwater.

The commander of West Madison Memorial Post No. 10203, Mel Cohen, said the suspension was taken in response to antiwar resolutions and other peace activities of the group. Fish declined further comment.

A 90-day jail sentence was stayed this morning for Samuel Thomas, 28, 730 N. Division St., who pleaded guilty of a disorderly conduct charge lodged by his wife.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, as a condition of the stay of sentence, ordered Thomas to stay away from his wife who has started divorce proceedings. Schaefer continued the case to Sept. 19 for review.

Mrs. Thomas said her husband struck her during a disturbance at home early today. The fire department rescue squad was summoned after Thomas consumed a number of pencilin pills. However, police instead took Thomas to jail after a doctor had been consulted. He remained jailed until today's court appearance.

A disturbance at a Town of Oneida tavern April 23 today cost Fredmond Hill, 32, route 1, Oneida, $50 and costs in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Judge Nick F. Schaefer found Hill guilty of disorderly conduct after hearing testimony at a trial held without a jury.

An attorney was appointed today for Thomas J. Kilsdonk, 19, 1440 Apple Creek Road, who was charged with forging his mother's $190.66 federal tax return check on June 2.

Courts

Kilsdonk, charged after investigation by Outagamie County sheriff's authorities, was found indigent during an appearance in County Court Branch 2. His case was continued to Wednesday and bond was set at $1,500.

Kaukauna Adds New Patrolman

KAUKAUNA — Alan Jacobson, 111½ W. Eighth St., has assumed duties as patrolman in the police department, according to Police Chief William Nagel.

A native of Kaukauna, the new officer is married, a graduate of Kaukauna High School and attended Wisconsin State Universities in Stevens Point and Oshkosh. He is a 4-year veteran of the U. S. Navy and worked at Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co., Kaukauna areas, thus joint promotional position.

Jacobson will serve a probationary period before being named to a full-time position in the department.

Heart of Valley Chamber Drive Now Underway

KAUKAUNA — Volunteers from the Heart of the Valley Chamber of Commerce have started a concentrated membership drive in Kaukauna. Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks spearheaded by businessmen from these communities who already hold memberships.

Each of the volunteers agreed to call on a number of their business associates in an effort to promote new members. A special Heart of the Valley membership emblem has been developed for the promotion.

The area-wide concept was inaugurated due to the closeness of the municipalities and the common problems. It was felt progress or growth in any of the communities has a direct beneficial effect on neighboring areas, thus joint promotional efforts should be undertaken.

This is the first concentrated membership drive held in several years in many of the communities, and the first for an area-wide plan.

League Investigates Organic Gardening

BY ALICE K. HUCK
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

Soil Is Good when you can run it through your hands, says Frank Lueck who explains to a group from the League of Women Voters about organic gardening. From left are Mrs. Kyle Ward Jr., Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. Norbet Luebke, Mrs. Mark French, Mrs. Thomas LaFountain and Lueck. Below, Mrs. Peter Fritzell and Mrs. Thomas Loveall peer into one compost pile.

As a logical followup to the League of Women Voters' study on pesticides, about 30 members, on a sunny morning last week, visited the organic garden of Frank Lueck, 518 E. Circle St.

For an hour and a half, women examined compost materials, looked at vegetable plants and fruit trees, asked questions and listened to factual information about home gardening by natural methods.

Most of the questions evolved around the composition of a compost pile for a small garden — what to put in it and how to keep it from smelling.

Lueck explained that everything went into his compost mixture except meat (which tends to get putrid) and citrus peelings which "for some reason the worms don't like."

The secret of his compost barrel, an old oil drum which, painted green, stands in the corner behind the garage, seems to be plenty of soil mixed in with the kitchen waste, lots of worms, and grass clippings and leaves added from another pile, as necessary.

Lueck says he can't remember when he put garbage out on the curb. Organic gardeners don't throw anything away he said, and he hoped groups such as the League could encourage cities to have municipal composting plants from which all gardeners could get their soil building material.

Explaining that he had built his garden soil from red clay fill that was removed from the street in front of his house at the time it was paved, Lueck emphasized the importance of worms to work the soil. "I had to import some in the beginning," he said.

Lueck said he could make a good, usable compost in three weeks if necessary. In addition he "scrounges" for horse and cow manure and buys rock phosphate "which is hard to get because there isn't enough demand."

The gardener said leaves will decompose faster if they are shredded. If a gardener doesn't have a shredder, he suggests, for a small garden, running the lawn mower back and forth over the leaves. In answer to a question, he dispelled the common thought that oak leaves are not good for compost. "Just add lime or rock phosphate which will take up the acid," he said.

In answer to other questions, Lueck said that the heat which decomposes the waste in the pile also kills off weed seed. He suggested that "three-week composting material should be forked over once a week, and longer-term compost piles, less often."

He spreads the compost on the garden all summer. "Organic gardeners don't feed individual plants," he said. "They feed the soil."

Lueck also explained about the insect-repellant borders he paints near the ground on fruit trees and the biological extract sprays he uses on these trees. He admits he must use a mild worm-repellant on his cabbage. However, he advises using insect-repellant plants such as onions and marigolds in the garden.

Insects have the important job of eradicating unhealthy plants warns Lueck.

Fairhaven Home Receives Antique Cup Collection

WHITEWATER — Fairhaven Corporation today accepted the second consignment of a 300-set collection of antique footed cups from Mr. & Mrs. Walter R. Buell of Sturgeon Bay who have given the unique and priceless art objects to the senior citizens' home.

Mrs. Buell, who over a 40-year period collected the beautiful ceramic pieces in a search which took her throughout the U. S. and many other countries, displayed a few selected items for Fairhaven residents, relatives, and friends who gathered in the dining room at 1 p.m. Monday.

One entire wall of the new dining room has been set aside where a special cabinet designed to display the collection will be constructed. Other niches and appropriate areas throughout the Fairhaven facility will be designated for display of small units of the collection.

The Buell gift encompasses most of the known varieties of ceramic handwork and applied art trim. Many of these represent Limoges, Balleek, Dresden, Bisque, Meissen, as well as very rare Chinese Egg Shell specimen art pieces.

Many of the cups were made and decorated as gifts for important dignitaries or as remembrances of some occasion. Being hand made, they show much of the artist's talent expressed by subject and color.

Experts from the Art Institute of Chicago, Northwestern University, and Marshall Field & Co. have studied and appraised the collection. The entire collection has been valued at $25,000, and individual cup-saucer sets at $350. Additional consignments of the collection will be made over the next 3 years.

Mrs. Buell said, "We are making this gift in memory of my mother, Mrs. William Kraft, who inspired me to start the collection by giving the first cup, and who was one of the early Fairhaven residents. In her residency, 'life was added to her years.' It is our hope that through this collection the Fairhaven family life will be enriched by beauty, color and culture."

A defender is "end-played" when a crafty declarer manipulates the play so as to give a defender the lead at such a time when all leads cost the defender a trick.

Most of the time the defender is "thrown in" with one suit and forced to lead another suit. On rare occasions both declarer and defender take turns "end-playing" each other.

Today's hand was played by Ace Bob Hamman against Pietro Forquet and Benito Garrozzo, one of the top pairs of the immortal Italian Blue Team.

The bidding was routine except for South's bid of one no-trump in response to a takeout double.

Most authorities recommend this bid as a constructive venture. However, this partnership played it as showing spades stopped and a smattering of high cards. North's 20 high-card points justified his jump to game.

Hamman (South) won Forquet's (West) lead of the diamond queen with dummy's king and paused to take stock. West's opening bid clearly marked him with most of the high cards. Since he had bid spades and led diamonds, he was also marked with length in both suits.

This was sufficient information for Bob Hamman, who quickly played as follows: He sheared off the ace and king of spades and then played the two top clubs. Next came the king of hearts. West took the heart king and exited with his last heart.

Hamman won both high hearts to force West to this position:

Fall to be Felt in Fabric

BY ANN HENKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Feela-ble fabrics—velvets, velveteens and corduroys—are coming on strong for fall.

Countless designers like this deep-pile quiet look.

Black velveteen is big.

Try it in blazers, jumpers or an evening suit matched with white satin blouse. At Blassport, it turns up in a bell-hop suit with red felt trim.

If you're a hot pants enthusiast, you're all set. At Project 2, hot pants are hidden under a smooth navy velvet midcoat. At the Chuck Howard boutique, they go under a beige velvet wrap coat. A hot pants suit is out in eggplant corduroy at Hang Ups.

For those who have turned wholeheartedly to the lady-like look, try the green velvet gown with fur cuffs at Joan Leslie—or the Richard Tam-John Mandi copper velvet gown with full feather ruff neck.

Actress Celeste Holm was commentator for the Foam Fashion Forum's nostalgic look at the '40s at the New York Couture Council's fall showings Monday.

Before the showing, Miss Holm said everyone is looking for security. "In the '40s we were fighting for our country. Now we've decided everything we've done since then is wrong."

"If clothes make people more secure, hurray. I don't think they will."

Father Is More Deformed Than His Child

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 24. My husband is 10 years my senior. We have a beautiful home in the suburbs and two lovely children. Unfortunately, our younger child, a boy, was born with a harelip another "deformed kid" — as he puts it.

Sometimes I become so depressed over my husband's attitude that I feel like leaving him. Please tell me what to do. — Last Resort

DEAR L. R.: Your husband is far more defective than the child. He needs counseling — and he needs it at once. Ask your pediatrician to suggest a therapist who customarily works with the parents of children with congenital defects. Not only is your husband making himself miserable, but he is ruining his marriage and damaging the boy emotionally.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am not 15 yet but I have lived a lot. I have something to say to that selfish 16-year-old girl who didn't want her father to remarry.

My mother and father fought like cats and dogs for as long as I can remember. I cannot recall that they ever had a civilized conversation. It was always yelling and screaming. Four years ago they were divorced. The court awarded me to my father. He wanted me. My mother didn't.

Two years later my dad married a wonderful woman. It would never have occurred to me to be against the marriage. After all the misery

Dad went through with my mother. I was happy to see him enjoy life. Dad's second marriage did a lot for me, too. It made me see that marriage can be a lovely relationship and that a man and wife can be friends.

I hope you print my letter. It might help other teen-agers who don't want a divorced mom or dad to remarry. — Greenwich Connie

DEAR CONNIE: You have a smart head on those 14-year-old shoulders. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ever since I can remember I have been afraid of the dark. I've always had to sleep with a light on. Even when I go from one room to another I must first turn on the light in the room I am entering before

I turn out the light in the room I am leaving. I know this is childish but I just can't help it.

I was married six months ago. My husband is sick of me clinging to him all night — making him sleep in a room with a light on and all the other babyish things I do. How can I get over these fears? — No Joke

DEAR N. J.: Fear of the dark which persists through adulthood is so deep-seated it would require intensive therapy to overcome. I hope your husband will be patient and that he will be willing to pay for professional help. In the meantime, buy a dim night light, one that can be plugged into a socket on your side of the bed, near the baseboard, if possible.

Summer 'Coffee Talks' Begin at Monte Alverno

Beginning June 17 Monte Alverno will offer something a little new in its summer program of coffee talks. "It might turn out to be a Coffee Under the Trees," the Rev. Kurt Gessner, director of the center said, "or we may give Monte Alverno a sidewalk cafe on Thursday mornings." Based on the show of interest from the 214 women from the Fox Cities who have taken part in some portion of the spring series given by Mary Catherine Ahearn, it was decided to continue the lectures and discussions on the complex needs of modern women during at least part of the summer.

Miss Ahearn, regional director of Patricia Stevens Career College and Finishing School and popular lecturer in communication and body language, brings a background in college teaching in social psychology with special emphasis on "Modern Woman" to this summer program.

"We will center our program around some light reading—Anne Morrow Lindberg's Gifts from the Sea, and Julius Fast's Body Language, for starters. But it will not be necessary to read the specific books to take part in the discussions. I will be giving background information on any books we use," she continued.

The program from 9-11 a.m. June 17 will be an introduction and is important for anyone who thinks she may wish to take in even one or two of the coffee talks during the summer.

Baby sitters will be provided only on those days when reservations have been made for them. There is no charge for the baby sitting services.

The Big Dipper is Dean's French Onion.

Every munchable and crunchable is more heavenly when dunked in Dean's French Onion Dip. Mild onion flavor that's just enough to bring out the full flavor of chips, crackers, vegetables. The Big Dipper! Tonight!

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

News Items of Special Interest
To Parents and Children

A recent Gallup Poll showed that 82 per cent of U. S. grade school age children had not read a book during the month preceding this survey. Of 24 million children, only 4 million had a book in the past 30 days. During this same time these children racked up between 93 and 155 hours of TV watching. Do you wonder why so many of our kids are having trouble learning to read? So go out and buy or borrow a book for your child today; read it to him or help him read it; discuss it over the dinner table and get him or her into the habit of looking at or reading at least two books per week.

Some interpreters of the 1970 U. S. Census suggest that the reason for the so-called generation gap is that today's children are better educated than their parents. The census figures show that high school graduates have increased, since 1940, from 38 to 75 per cent in the population, and that young adults with college degrees have proliferated from 6 to 16 per cent. The fathers of two-thirds of today's college kids enjoyed no more than a high school education. But what do these figures prove? It's less important how long children stay in schools and more important what they learn while they attend. In the light of the depressing Gallup figures cited above, I doubt whether the increased years of education benefit today's young people proportionately.

Meanwhile the promise that Computer Assisted Instruction in schools might cure our educational problems, so bravely predicted in the sixties, has largely evaporated before the new decade ends its second year. The National Education Association reports that fewer than one teacher in 10 indicated in a recent survey that they use CAI in their classrooms and nearly one in five did not know whether such instruction was available in the school system. CAI has a place in special education but happily it has not replaced essential student-teacher relationships and interaction. Perhaps there's hope for our kids after all, if the schools are beginning to reject educational gadgetry.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has issued its first annual report on the effect of marijuana. Like most of these reports, this one stresses the drug's relative harmlessness. But as a kind of afterthought, this research points out that pot alters space and time perception; that it causes euphoria and disinhibition; that it dulls attention and causes fragmentation of

The Ailing House

40 Year
Leak Can Be Fixed

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: For 40 years, there has been a leak where the flat roof of an addition meets the original house. We have had to replace the ceiling twice. What do you suggest? — Milwaukee.

A: Having the flashing over this joint strengthened and repaired 40 years ago would have saved you a lot of annoyance and expense. Never too late to mend, though Do it now.

Q: We recently bought a modern ranch house with very hard wood floors in natural color. They were originally waxed, but now the wax has worn off in many places. Is there some way to remove the rest of this wax so I can refinish with varnish? — Columbus.

A: Prepared wax removers are widely sold in supermarkets, housewares sections, some hardware stores. To get the surface in best possible condition for varnishing, smooth it all off with a floor sanding machine.

Members of the Evangel Deaf Dorcas Society begin the task of counting Betty Crocker coupons in their quest for a van to transport children from Appleton to the Evangel Deaf Chapel at Evangel Community Church, Menasha, for services and Sunday School. Mrs. Laurent Behnke, Mrs. Jack Albrecht and Mrs. Earl Hinterthuer bend to the task. They have one more year to amass a total of 400,000 coupons and seek community assistance.

of an ounce of the weed. But it's one thing not to cruelly punish juvenile experimentation and quite another to endorse a drug or to play down its properties that clearly interferes with learning, with study and with the acquisition of competence.

If you are interested in finding out which of the many children's magazines, newspaper and references books might be of interest and value to your child, send 25 cents in coin, and a large (No. 10), stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, Arnold Arnold, Dept. V, c-o The Post - Crescent. I'll see to it that you'll receive an authoritative guide, prepared by the Association for Childhood Education International.

Deaf Society Needs Coupons To Obtain Van

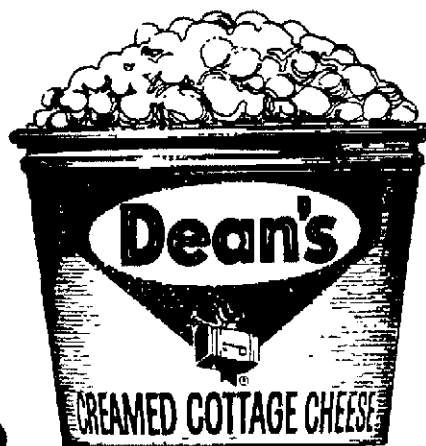

A van to transport children with impaired hearing from Appleton to church services and activities is the goal of a group of women who are members of the Evangel Deaf Dorcas Society of Evangel Community Church, Menasha. And they believe they have found the way. General Mills has given them 18 months in which to amass a total of 400,000 Betty Crocker coupons with a deadline of July, 1972.

The women have made a good start. 15,000 coupons, but are a very long way from their goal and thus are seeking the assistance of people of the Fox Cities to help in this quest.

People with hearing problems meet in a separate service each Sunday morning in the Evangel Deaf Chapel, actually having their own church within a church. Sunday school is provided for the children with hearing problems. A joint service is also provided Sunday evening for members of the two congregations within one church.

Already serving persons with hearing problems in Neenah and Menasha, the group hopes to expand its services, and the van is needed before they will be able to do so.

British Representative Consul Airs Views on Common Market Entry

Eugene H. Harrison, the British commercial consul for the northern Midwest, sees "virtually no problems" barring his country's participation in the Common Market by the beginning of 1973.

He expects American companies to find it difficult to sell in the enlarged European Economic Community "unless they are in the Common Market manufacturing already."

Harrison was in Appleton Monday, meeting with manufacturers who trade with Britain, and he spoke to the Lions Club on Anglo-American trade relations.

Part of his job is to convince firms to open up or license manufacturing subsidiaries in Britain. Outside companies are welcomed especially in depressed areas such as Scotland and South Wales, he said, because they provide investments, relieve unemployment and earn foreign exchange.

Trade earnings are also necessary, he said, to alleviate the "enormous tax situation" in the country. "Splendid welfare schemes can easily be prostituted," he stated, and have contributed to the heavy income, sales and corporate tax structure. "Your young man coming out of college is soon faced with a 48 per cent income tax on his salary," he said.

British, Irish and Scandinavian entry into the EEC will create a unified European market of 250 million people. Harrison expects a lot of inefficient British industries "to go to the wall" with the increased competition and quoted government figures showing that the national food bill may go up by $600 million when French agricultural imports replace commonwealth and American products.

Publicity has focused on these problems, and on the danger to

Sacred Heart Voters Veto Area Board

New Zealand's economy if its trade ties to Britain are weakened. But Harrison believes Common Market entry "is the only way to go" for the government, and said competition will force British managements to improve their practices.

The United Kingdom is the world's largest manufacturer of farm tractors, and equipment made by Massey-Ferguson and International subsidiaries is imported into this area, along with cars, bicycles, motorcycles and boats.

Total British sales in the U.S. are $2½ billion. The country has a half-billion dollar deficit, and its biggest export is scotch whiskey, to the tune of $280 million a year.

In a release, the priest stated that less than 8 per cent indicated "that their pastor should 'cool' his opposition to the proposed area board. Ballots had been mailed to all parishioners.

Straudmaier has been the only pastor out of the eight Appleton parishes to go on record opposing the group, whose goal is described as "furthering the cause of Catholic education on all levels," by involving all the city parishes and Catholic educational programs in the city.

Staudenmaier also announced the names of the newly elected parish officers. William Hofius was chosen secretary; Jack Gebert, treasurer; and Robert Mancel, parish representative to the Xavier board.

New members of the budget committee are George Hoffer and Michael Hart. New on the finance committee are Robert Ebben, Joseph Griesbach, John Oberweiser and Erling Miller; and buildings and grounds committee, Jerry Cops, John Kools, Jerry Thomson, Julius Pritzl, Earl Thiel, Gordon Seavers, Roland Choudoir, Don Biesterfeld and Cliff McHugh and Thomas McHugh.

FVTI to Offer Orientation in Data Processing

Four three-day orientation sessions for employers and students entering or interested in the data processing program at Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI) will be offered this summer.

The first three sessions will be from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. June 21-23, 28-30 and July 26-28. The final session will be from 6 to 9 p.m. Aug. 2-5 and 9-12. All will be at the FVTI in Appleton.

The purpose of the program is to give future students an insight into data processing, so that they can make more intelligent decisions about a career in that field.

During the three days, individuals will be given an overview of the courses and their content, a tour of the school, demonstrations on the data processing equipment. Everyone will have an opportunity to talk individually with the instructors, and counselors.

Additional information is available from and registration is accepted at the registrar's office at FVTI-Appleton.

500 Carpenters Strike in State's Northwest Area

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — A 15-county area of Northwestern Wisconsin has been struck by about 500 members of Carpenters Local 1074.

Robert Hulback of Eau Claire, the locals' business manager, said contractors representing the Chippewa Valley Contractors Association were attempting to delete certain working conditions in the contract.

The contracts expired May 31 along with those of several other area construction unions.

Painters, cement finishers and laborers are still negotiating and have not struck, but they are observing the picket line.

The affected area runs from Douglas County on the north to Trempealeau County on the south, and from Minnesota on the west to Clark County on the east.

Work on several large projects in the area has stopped, including a Menomonie hospital and an Eau Claire State University library extension.

Appleton Man Bound Over on Arson Count

OSHKOSH — The case of an Appleton man charged with arson was bound over from Winnebago County Court Branch 3 to Circuit Court Monday, following a preliminary hearing on the charge.

Donald R. Wakefield, 45, of 112 W. Wilson St., Appleton, was charged with arson following a fire at a rural home south of Oshkosh June 8. The home, belonging to Harry Folske, 4661 Waupun Road, was extensively damaged in the fire.

No date was set for Wakefield's trial.

Insurance Convention Ignores Hottest Topic

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Nearly 1,000 life insurance agents will gather here next week for the 44th annual meeting of the Million Dollar Round Table, which limits its membership to those who sell at least $1 million of life insurance during a calendar year.

Information announcing the program describes a full week of lectures and discussions designed to help the agent sell more insurance. This year's theme is "The Agent as a Businessman" on the theory that "agents must be good businessmen in order to do a good job of selling and servicing life insurance needs."

Among the topics, are the usual ones on accounting and budget practices, plus many dealing with methods and devices to increase the sale of insurance. Sample topics are: "Ideas That Have Made Dollars for Me," "Selling Doctors," "Tax Sheltered Annuities," and

"What is Best for Me?"

Among the featured speakers are author James A. Michener, U.S. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills and W. J. Beeners, director of speech at Princeton Theological Seminary, a frequent lecturer at life insurance conventions.

According to the official brochure of the Million Dollar Roundtable, entitled "Invitation to Excellence," the annual meeting is "the forum par excellence of the life insurance industry." Each meeting, it the says, "is conceived and carried out as a demonstration of excellence. The goal is to provide the membership with the best of everything — speakers, subjects and surroundings." The "best of everything," however, does not include any of the growing army of critics of life insurance selling methods or any representatives of policyholders to speak frankly or lead discussions about what the buyer gets when the seller gets the "best of everything."

Noticeably absent from the long list of discussion and lecture topics is anything about the so-called "traditional" method of calculating insurance costs by most agents seeking to sell "cash-value" policies.

In recent years, this method has come under increasing attack as a deceptive practice since it ignores the matter of interest cost and gives the impression that policyholders who stay well can "make money" by getting back more than they pay out.

Under the traditional method, dividends and cash surrender values are added up over a period of years projected into the future, then subtracted from the total of premiums paid during the same period. The method, however, does not calculate the amount of interest lost. And it does not consider the fact that cash values can be obtained only by discounting the insurance.

Some leaders of the insurance industry recognizing the need for review of this method, set up a prestigious committee to do just that two years ago. The committee's report a year ago recommended a new method in order to take interest into consideration.

But the committee's report has had virtually no effect on the industry. It is not even mentioned in a thick packet of pre-convention materials announcing the forthcoming meeting of the Million Dollar Round Table.

The main reason, of course, is that including the cost of interest in sales presentations would make some types of insurance look more expensive than they look under the traditional method that ignores interest cost. This would make it harder to sell a million dollars' worth of insurance per year.

One of the most influential critics of the traditional cost method is Joseph M. Belth, a professor at Indiana University. Almost at the time when industry officials announced the Roundtable convention, he presented a statement on insurance costs to the Senate Subcommittee for Consumers.

His 20-page paper was submitted in support of a bill (S. 984) designed to allow groups of consumers to file court suits to recover damages allegedly due to fraud or misrepresentation. The "class action" measure would include insurance problems as well as others.

Aligned against the bill are most industries involved, including the life insurance industry. The Nixon Administration also opposes the measure; it wants class action restricted to cases already successfully prosecuted by the Federal Government.

Belth cites specific advertisements which he calls deceptive. Although most advertisements and sales pitches are truthful, they often omit important information that relates to comparative costs of alternative insurance policies.

As Belth points out, life insurance that includes cash value is a mixture of both insurance and investment. When it is simply protection against death, it is usually known as "term" insurance because it is sold for a period of years.

Being pure protection, term insurance usually costs less than cash value insurance which includes extra money for investment. Commissions are also lower, so agents tend to push other types of insurance that bring them greater returns but cost the policyholder more per thousand dollars of coverage.

Life insurance is necessary for most people. It is also confusing, and some sales pitches don't help matters when they fail to lay out all the alternatives available to a prospective buyer. Shopping around doesn't always help.

As a general rule, term insurance provides the most protection for the dollar in the young and middle years. For investment purposes, a most anything will bring a greater return than life insurance.

day. Kuiper, the second baseman, fielded a grounder, forced Blanda at second, then managed to fire to first to complete a double play. SIU won the game.

"I tried to come out to get extra hitting, but I couldn't because of the rain," he said.

The Orioles and Brewers were tied 5-5 since the sixth frame when Briggs got hold of a fastball from relief hurler Pete Richert, providing a victory for Ken Sanders (3-3), the Brewers' ace game saver who had come on in the eighth.

Baltimore opened the game with a four-run first inning including a two-run homer by Frank Robinson and another one by Brooks Robinson.

Tommy Harper doubled home a Brewer run in the second inning. Frank Robinson nullified it with a run - scoring single in the fourth.

The rookie pitcher Bill Parsons led off the Brewer fifth with a homer, and Davey May doubled, eventually scoring an unearned run with the help of a Baltimore ball bobbler.

In the sixth, the Brewers picked up two more runs when Harper homered, scoring Rick Auerbach who had walked and tying the score 5-3.

Milwaukee left three men on base in a scoreless eighth inning, and Baltimore similarly stranded two while Sanders turned off an Oriole threat.

Shaffer Hurls Win; Ewing 3-for-3

Foxes Stop Cedar Rapids, Stretch Lead to 3 Games

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. — a double by Hector Cruz. Appleton rapped three Cedar Rapids pitchers for 12 hits with three runs in the sixth on Tuesday night enroute to a 5-3 win over Cardinals.

The win was the sixth straight for the Foxes and increased their Northern Division lead in the Midwest League to three games over the runnerup Cardinals.

Sam Ewing and Joe Talley led the hitting barrage as each Appleton player registered at least one hit.

Ewing extended his hitting streak to five games with three hits in three trips to the plate, and has hit safely in 10 of the 11 games he has played in this year. The big, left-handed hitting right fielder, who missed five weeks with a broken jaw, has 22 hits in 41 at-bats for a .536 average.

Talley collected two hits in four tries and raised his batting average six points to .318.

Duane Shaffer scattered eight hits, walked four and struck out nine to pick up his fifth win in seven decisions.

An infield chopper by Jerry Hairston scored Ross Sapp with the first Appleton run in the top of the first inning. Sapp opened the game with a single and advanced to third on a passed ball and Brian Downing's infield out.

Appleton missed out on a second run in the first when Lamar Johnson failed to touch third base after he doubled and raced home on Bob Forsch's wild pitch.

Cedar Rapids tied the game in its half of the first on John Hud's single and infield out and 5-3: Oakland belted Washington

Downing beat out an infield Forsch's second wild pitch, and The Foxes went ahead to stay bouncer and Hairston slapped a Talley singled to score Ewing. Appleton added a final run in the eighth when, with two out, followed with a double to score Ewing and Talley singled and Bucky Dent was hit by a Thompson pitch to fill the bases. McEnderlier's second passed ball enabled Ewing to score, and Bruce Kimm grounded out to end the inning.

Russ Bennett's run-scoring double and Mike Fenton's RBI ground out accounted for Cedar Rapids' final two runs in the eighth.

Forsch went six innings and was charged with the loss, his fourth against five wins.

Appleton and Cedar Rapids meet again tonight.

Joe Horlen Regains Winning Form in 6-1 White Sox Triumph

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer

It took Joe Horlen's magical healing powers just 29 days to transport him from the operating table to the pitching mound. Now, after a year-long struggle, he's also recovered his winning touch.

Horlen, who made a remarkable comeback a month ago from his second knee operation since last August, hurled the Chicago White Sox past Detroit 6-1 Tuesday night for his first victory since last June 19.

Bill Melton's grand slam homer and solo shots by Mike Hershberger and Rich McKinney provided solid backing for the courageous 33-year-old right hander, who scattered eight hits in going the route.

Elsewhere in the American League, Milwaukee overhauled Baltimore 6-5; the New York Yankees cooled Kansas City 2-0; Minnesota topped Cleveland 1-0; and Oakland belted Washington 5-3.

Cedar Rapids tied the game in its half of the first on John Hud's single and infield out and 5-3: Oakland belted Washington

Horlen, a double-figure winner for seven consecutive seasons, beginning in 1963, slipped to 6-16 last year and was forced to undergo surgery on Aug. 4 for the repair of torn cartilage in his right knee.

Dr. Gerald Loftus, who operated on Horlen, said he'd probably be through for the season. But Horlen returned to action after 34 days, working six times in relief in the final month.

He went to spring training this year with high hopes of regaining his form, but was sidetracked again on April 4, when he suffered torn cartilage in his other knee. Another operation was performed the following day.

This time, the projected recovery period was six to eight weeks. But Horlen was exercising the damaged leg three

Bryant Mound Star as Giants Win

BY KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

The wild, wild West is getting out of hand and San Francisco needs a tough slinger to silence that swaggering bunch from Los Angeles.

Get Ron Bryant. Ron Bryant? Well, he's as tough a slinger as the Giants have right now, with all due respects to Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry.

Bryant pitched the first complete game of the Giants' June flop, firing four-hit blanks at Philadelphia for a much-needed 6-0 triumph Tuesday night.

It was only the Giants' fourth victory in June, a month which cost them ground in the National League's West race. Since the first of the month, San Francisco's whip-hand lead of 10 games was whittled in half to five by high-riding Los Angeles.

Incidentally, San Francisco's top pair of Marichal and Perry was not able to win during the spinout.

In the National League's other games, Los Angeles kept hot with a 2-0 triumph over New York, the Dodgers' fifth straight and eighth victory in 10 contests; San Diego topped Montreal 3-1; Chicago whipped Atlanta 3-1; St. Louis trimmed Cincinnati 6-1 and Pittsburgh beat Houston 3-0.

"The ball was really moving," said Bryant, explaining Perry. Marichal has eight. Alan Gallagher ended an 0-8 slump with a two-run homer to back Bryant's beauty. Gallagher's single came with the bases loaded during a four-run fourth inning and kayoed Philadelphia's starter Barry Lersch.

Al Downing kept Los Angeles on the San Francisco beat with a five-hitter and Maury Wills knocked in all the Dodger runs with a two-run single in the fifth inning.

New York's Nolan Ryan, who struck out nine and gave up only five hits in eight innings

'Time Is Running Out'

Grand Slam Still Arnie's Main Goal

By BOB GREEN ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — A wry, rueful smile stretched across the famous, putty face, and Arnold Palmer admitted: "Time is running out."

Palmer, at 41 an aging lion, but still one of the chief contenders in the 71st U.S. Open golf championship, took a long look at himself and the game he has helped popularize before teeing off in a practice round Tuesday.

"My long-range goal is the same now as it was in 1960 (when I won the Open and the Masters): it's the same as (Jack) Nicklaus'—win all four major championships in a single year.

"I think it can be done, and I think I can do it." He paused, then smiled again.

"But each year that goes by it becomes more and more unlikely.

Changing Interests "I have a lot more, a lot different interests now than I did in 1960. Then I just wanted to play the best golf in the world. I was only 30 years old.

"I still love the game, love to play it. I can't think of anything I'd rather do. But as you grow older, you develop different, varied interests. You have to, or you're going to be in big trouble."

Would he make any changes in his life if he could do it all over?

"No, I can't think of anything I'm happier doing. If I couldn't play on the tour, I think I'd be in the game some how, as a club pro or a greenskeeper or something.

"And if there weren't a game of golf, I'd probably have gone into flying. Maybe a test pilot or something like that."

Fatal Shank Again, the big grin. "But if that had happened, I'd probably be dead by now."

Cracked up somewhere. You shank when you're flying and you've had it."

He hasn't won a major championship—the United States and British Opens, the Masters and PGA—since the 1964 Masters.

But, off his performance this season, he ranks—behind Nicklaus—as one of the prime candidates for this title, possibly the most prestigious the world can offer.

Palmer, the game's all-time leading money winner and the most popular player the game has ever known, is enjoying his best season in three years. He's won twice and has more than $109,000 in winnings, fourth on the list, this season.

Nicklaus Favored Some other major contenders in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday include Billy Casper, Coody, Frank Beard, Gene Littler, Lee Trevino, South African Gary Player, Tom Weiskopf and England's troubled Tony Jacklin, the defending champion, and possibly the reigning U.S. Seniors champion, 51-year-old Julius Boros.

But the awesome Nicklaus ranks as the man to beat in the international field of 150. The trimmed down 180-pounder, a new-look man with a fresh wardrobe and mod-length blond mane, appears to be at the top of his game.

He has scored three tournament triumphs, including the PGA national title. He was second in the Masters, lost in a playoff two weeks ago at Atlanta and has failed to make the top 10 finishers in only two starts this season.

At 31 and firmly established as one of the greatest players the world has ever seen, the bull-strong man from Ohio is the favorite every time he tees it up. He has averaged more than $14,600 in winnings in every start this year.

Pepitone Wields Hot Bat for Cubs

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Pepitone, a blithe baseball spirit who seldom claimed it was great to be a Yankee, is playing Wrigley Field like it was Broadway.

The hot-hitting Chicago Cub first baseman not only has become almost a daily game-winning hero, but is pushing toward his first .300 batting season in a nine-year major league career.

Pepitone slammed a bases loaded two-run single Tuesday in the first inning which proved all Bill Hands needed for a 3-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves, held hitless the last seven innings.

Monday, the Wild Joker of the Cub club house belted a three-run homer in the eighth for a 3-2 shading of the Braves. A week ago Tuesday, Pepitone's 12th-inning homer won a 1-0 verdict for Kennn Holtzman over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Long Streak
Pepi's 14-game consecutive hitting streak is the longest by a Cub this season and includes a 21-for-37 plate performance which has boosted his season average to .317.

Joe has a cartoon pasted on his locker depicting a comic, insect-helmeted cyclist with the caption: "Everytime I make a run I have to comb the bugs out."

The way Joe is doing it, the opposition has to comb out the bugs. Pepi is quick to point out his best hitting year with the New York Yankees was 1963 when he batted .271.

That was the first of his seven full seasons with the Yankees from whom he departed AWOL, just as he did from the Houston Astros in 1970 before the Cubs signed him last July 29.

"This ball park (Wrigley Field) has made a better hitter of me, because you can lay back and spray the ball to any field," said Pepitone.

"I was a .300 hitter in the minors but when I came to Yankee Stadium I had to become a pole hitter shooting for the right field rim. I hit homers, sure, like 31, 28, 27, but I didn't hit for percentage."

"In Wrigley Field, you can lay back, pick your pitches and you don't try to kill the ball. And when the wind is right you can get your homers, too."

Lew Fonseca, Cub batting coach, says left-handed hitting Pepitone has a wrist snap at the plate almost as fast as Ted Williams.

"Pepi cuts it shorter, but he jumps that bat around as quickly as Ted," Fonseca said.

The Cub victory, behind Hands' strong performance boosted the club to a 31-31 mark in the National League East standings. It was the first time the Cubs regained the .500 level since May 22 when they stood 20-20.

Hands was raked for three straight singles in the second inning before Atlanta got its only run, shoved across on a double-play with the bases loaded. After that, Hands mowed down 22 straight batters on seven innings of no-hit pitching to boost his record to 7-8.

"I sharpened my control and used different speeds on my pitches after the second," said Hands. "The only way I can win, is by hitting the spots and keeping the ball low. I'm not a hard thrower or a strike out artist. If I don't hit the spots I get my head knocked off."

Only 39 Have Signed City Golf Tourney Entries Due Tonight

A slim total of 39 entries has been received for the Appleton City Golf Tournament, which begins this weekend, according to Reid Muni pro-manager Ralph Mouser.

Because the entries have been slow in arriving, the deadline for entering the meet has been extended through tonight.

Mouser expressed disappointment that no women have yet signed to participate. This year's women's competition is reduced from 72 to 36 holes over the 2-weekend, 4-day meet in hopes of attracting more female players.

Of the 39 male players entered, 12 have signed to compete in championship flight.

Leading the list is defending titlist Pat Malloy. Others are Don Strutz, a 5-time winner of the event, and Denny Babb, a co-runnerup along with ruck Bayer (Bayer won a playoff) in last year's event.

Chuck Bayer, his brother Syl and Gary Kriek are notable Reid regulars who had not sent in entries as of Tuesday.

Other championship challengers include Tom LaFountain, John Hurley, Tom Bauer, Clair Bolwerk, Dennis Johnson, Bill Morse, Jim Edmunds, Greg Hess and Jim Hulsizer.

Bob McCrory and Pete Gorski are two lower flight champions returning to try to keep their crowns. McCrory won B flight honors while Gorski took the juniors title in 1970.

The entries of A flight champ Terry Graff and C flight king Ross Warne were not in by Tuesday.

5 Famous Cars to be Shown 'Speed' Display Slated Here

Five famous racing cars—including a 600-mile-per-hour vehicle—will be on display at the Matthews Tire & Auto Center (2930 College Ave.) Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The racing exhibit, called "Meet the Hot Ones," also will feature a model of the Modular Equipment Transporter (MET) that Apollo 14 astronauts used on the moon.

"Spirit of America—Sonic I" is the machine that attained a speed of 600.601 m.p.h. in 1965, at the Bonneville Salt Flats, with Craig Breedlove at the wheel. That set a world land speed record which stood until 1970.

Another powerful vehicle on

Marion Drops First Start in Legion Loop

MARION — Despite outgunning Stevens Point by a 7-2 margin, the Marion Legion team dropped a 2-1 decision here Tuesday night.

The Point squad thus hiked its record to 2-0, while Marion was competing in its first game in the Wisconsin Valley Legion League.

Marion notched its run in the first inning behind a walk to Bruce Breitenfeldt and Kent Brandenburg's single. Brandenburg then attempted to steal second and the Point catcher threw the ball away allowing Breitenfeldt to score.

Point tied the game in the second on a walk, an error and an errant pickoff throw. What proved to be the winning run scored in the fifth on Nick Bordow's fielder's choice with the bases loaded.

Bondow also turned out to be the hero in the bottom of the ninth inning when he made a sliding catch of Breitenfeldt's liner to center with the bases loaded.

Phil Klismith tossed the win, fanning 16 and allowing three walks. Kevin Thiel and Kent Brandenburg shared mound duties for Marion, combining for 13 strikeouts and 14 walks. Thiel gave up 12 of the free passes and fanned seven in 6 2-3 innings of work.

hours after the operation—and pitching in relief on May 4, 29 days after surgery.

His true grit finally paid off after three setbacks, Tuesday night when he shackled the Tigers, who had won six of the previous seven starts.

Melton broke the game open in the sixth with his 10th homer and second grand slam of the year.

Detroit's Gates Brown set an all-time AL record of 77 career pinch hits when he slammed an eighth inning triple.

The Yankees snapped Kansas City's six-game winning streak on a two-run homer by Bobby Murcer and the five-hit pitching of Steve Kline.

Murcer slammed his 11th homer of the season in the sixth off Ken Wright following a single by Kline.

Home runs by Tony Oliva, Rich Reese and pinch-hitter Brant Alvey powered the Twins past Cleveland.

Mike Epstein socked two homers for three Oakland runs and Bert Campaneris homered for three more, helping unbeaten Chuck Dobson breeze to his fifth victory with a five-hitter.

Syd O'Brien rapped a two-run homer in the ninth, lifting the Angels past the Red Sox. Controversial Alex Johnson, back in California's starting lineup for the first time since June 4, poked three hits.

The Merger Dilemma

No doubt because of the extravagant use of such materials to suit the purposes of professional politicians, the editors of this page have developed a deep reserve about ad hoc public opinion polls, those blue-bound digests of elaborate findings printed on bond paper that turn up so often as purported proofs of the trends of popular conviction on the issues of the day.

We have a special skepticism about those polls that are commissioned under exigent circumstances by public men who face problems or decisions that they would prefer to evade. In that category we would place the "poll" that was made public the other day by Chairman Bernard Ziegler of the University of Wisconsin board of regents. It was represented as a sample of the reaction of Wisconsin residents toward the Lucey administration's desire to combine the two state university systems into a single system of higher education under one board.

In general terms, the poll showed a surprising number of persons interviewed who had an attitude on the question, although they were nearly equally divided. For those who are aware of polling techniques and the usually vague responses of ordinary persons to questions of sophisticated detail and impact, there was something lacking in the summary. The number of "undecided" in the Wisconsin electorate is surely far greater in proportion to the whole than the Ziegler-ordered study found.

But accepting the findings for what they are worth, it is evident that Gov. Lucey has made some impression — and perhaps an unexpectedly strong one — with what is undoubtedly the major administrative change in his first term program.

There appears to be some appreciation of the governor's concern about the cost of the enormous higher education establishment, and, perhaps, the prospects for even higher expenditure demands ahead. Those polled seemed to put greater emphasis upon the possibility of cost reductions in a merged system, than upon alternative values in improvement in the quality of education for all state university students, as the governor promises, or downward leveling, as some of the educational establishment officers appear to fear.

More than four months have passed since the governor unveiled his bold proposal for a basic revision of the management pattern of the vast university program supported by the state treasury. Yet there has not been a true test of legislative sentiment. The fact that the assembly last week approved and sent to the senate a budget-tax bill that included the merger plan is only faintly suggestive. Everybody in Madison knew that the assembly's action was primarily a gesture of challenge to the state senate, that the senate will amend the measure to a degree unacceptable to the lower house, and that the final program will be written by a conference committee.

Thus the prospects for historic adjustment in the direction of higher education mechanics in Wisconsin remain murky, at best. Perhaps the best omen for the governor is that his plan has not yet been turned down. As long as he can manage to tie it inextricably to the appropriation anxieties of the institutional officers involved, he will probably have a fair chance of success.

Who Owes the Ecology Bill

Truly thoughtful and earnest champions of the new crusading objectives embodied in the word "ecology" may well ask themselves about the risks of selective accusation that unfortunately appears to be increasingly common.

There is a more visible tendency as more converts turn to the worthy cause of social action to reduce or halt preventable degradation of the earth's resources to simplify the issues by arbitrarily identifying supposed offenders.

This is illustrated by a bill in the state legislature with apparently substantial support. It concerns itself with the preservation of "wetlands." No person with the slightest understanding of the resource protection problem can doubt the importance of reducing or eliminating the reckless destruction of these vital parts of the natural history chain. But the approach in the suggested control bill in the legislature is arbitrary, unfair and dangerously short-sighted. The penalty would be visited upon the person who happens to hold title to such lands. The plan is to prohibit any alteration of even a tiny bog or swamp, except through permit of the state and the authors of the proposal make it plain that permission will be very hard, indeed, to obtain.

Thus, the true object of the proposition is to force the landowner, in a typical instance, the farmer, to bear the liability in cost or in penalty for what is a social objective intended to benefit the community as a whole including future generations.

Such coercion is not likely to succeed. The protection of the environment and the prevention of its casual waste and destruction is a problem of the whole human community. The cost of such efforts must be borne by that whole community.

A more imaginative and progressive plan with the identical objective is, fortunately, before the legislature. It proposes to make the whole state a partner of the landowner in the protection and preservation of wetlands. The inducement would be a tax concession for such parcels, with an acknowledgement that what society wants society ought to pay for.

Wisconsin leaders in the cause of resource protection will recall the futility of the repeated efforts 30 years ago and more to bludgeon the woodland owners of the state into good forest management practices by statute. The legislature was asked repeatedly, to write a law that would explicitly limit the right of the landowner to harvest a wood crop from his own property. Year after year the appeals were spurned, while the crusaders on the sidelines of politics lamented the adamant selfishness, as they saw it, of those who held title to forest lands. Much later there evolved a plan to provide incentives to the landowner for good forest practices, through the reduction of his tax liability that was transferred to the community as a whole.

The environmental crusade tends to be dominated by our citizens who are upper class, or upper middle class, in the jargon of the sociologist. They are mostly urban, no doubt because the problems of blight, scenic despoliation, air and water contamination and many others, are most critical in the cities. Urban worries about resource destruction tend also to be directed toward non-urban issues, often colliding with the interests, real or supposed, of rural residents in less affluent circumstances. The current resolve of nature lovers, canoe devotees and others to defeat the Kickapoo dam project in southern Wisconsin illustrates. There is a kind of snobism shown here that can only weaken the cause of environmental protection, even as does the easy assumption that the rural landowner has a fiscal liability not acknowledged by alarmed city residents.

Behind Stagflation

Administration's Main Hopes For Economy Aren't Working

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The latest batch of economic statistics does not merely report more bad news about unemployment and inflation. This time the indicators record a new fact that explains the continuation of stagflation. The fact is that the Administration's main hope for stimulating economic recovery — monetary policy — is not working.

As everybody knows, there are two principal theories about how to foster increased economic activity. One is the Keynesian theory which emphasizes fiscal policy made through the medium of the Federal budget. The premise is that the government can nudge particular groups of consumers or businessmen into buying or investing by prevailing opinion seems to be that a blast of wind capsized the boat in which the couple were seated and precipitated them into the lake.

It being late in the evening and quite dark, all efforts to reach the shore proved futile.

New officers of the Appleton branch of American Association of University Women were Mrs. William Arnold, president; Mrs. Harvey Lhost, first vice president; Mrs. Ronald Anderson, second vice president; Mrs. A. Rowland Todd, treasurer.

James Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Miller, was named the Optimist Boy of the Month. He was chosen for his work in high school and the community. The graduating senior from Appleton High School served as chairman of the Teens for Polio drive the previous year and worked for several years on the fund drive. He was president of the First Methodist Church Youth Fellowship and served in the same office for the Terror's Den Ski Club and Outagamie County Teenage Safety Council. His activities at high school included the Curling Club, Spanish Club and Curtain Call.

budgetary outlays or tax benefits.

The other theory is the monetarist theory widely associated with Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago. The premise is that prosperity is a function of the money pumped into the private banking system by the Federal Reserve Board. The monetarists argue, more on historical grounds than by a show of cause-and-effect evidence, that steady prosperity can be achieved if the Fed expands the money supply by roughly 6 percent per year.

In the past President Nixon has leaned very heavily toward the monetarists. Those of his followers who like to call themselves conservatives are pleased by the emphasis on private banks as against the Federal budget, and he himself has been close to Prof. Friedman and his disciples. When announcing his economic plans for this year, however, the President declared, "I am a Keynesian." It was presumed that he would follow an economic policy which mixed the two approaches.

Half-Hearted

But it now develops that Mr. Nixon's conversion to Keynesianism was half-hearted indeed — a profession of faith more designed to disarm critics than to govern policy. The amount of stimulation deliberately cranked into this year's budget was no greater than in the previous year — the year of recession. While there has been some slippage that promises a big budgetary deficit by the end of the year, the reason is mainly decreased tax payments rather than increased outlays. Moreover, stimulating the economy through the budget requires a parallel policy of holding down wages and

Too Many Boones

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — The management of Onondaga Cave on U.S. 66, discovered by American pioneer Daniel Boone in 1798, for a long time admitted free anyone with that name.

The practice has been discontinued because "there was just too many people claiming to be born with that name," says director Bob Hudson. "It's bad business to say a tourist is a liar, when we know that many of them were, so we stopped the practice."

prices to guard against inflation. But the Nixon administration has acted only mildly and reluctantly in the wage and price field. The 31 percent pay increase granted by the aluminum companies last week virtually assures a similar increase by the steel companies later this summer. That means the Administration cannot seriously dig in on wages and prices until fall at the earliest, and without such a stand there is little chance of stimulating the economy through the budget.

In these circumstances the full brunt of economic stimulation has been borne by the Federal Reserve. Chairman Arthur Burns has met his responsibilities manfully.

During the past three months the quantity of money in the economy has been expanded more rapidly than in any other quarter since 1950. But none of the good things that are supposed to follow from an expanded money supply have materialized.

For example, interest rates are supposed to drop because of the increased availability of funds. But the average yield on high-grade corporate bonds last week was just below 8 percent as against just under 7 percent in January.

Small Increase

Business activity is supposed to rise because of the availability of more funds for investment. But the latest statistics show businessmen preparing to spend only 2.7 percent more for plant and equipment this year than last — an increase that doesn't even keep up with the pace of rising prices.

Unemployment is supposed to drop because of increased business activity. But in fact, the latest bunch of numbers have unemployment at 6.2 percent — a high for the past nine years.

Just why monetary stimulation has not produced the expected results is a matter for debate. One good guess is that many big companies, made nervous by the troubles of Penn Central and Lockheed, are using the money they raise at high interest rates to improve their cash position. Another theory is that companies and individuals are holding onto cash in the expectation that interest rates will rise even higher later on when the Fed comes off the easy-money policy.

Perhaps these and other conditions which are now making the monetarist theory look so bad are only temporary. Maybe the economy will right itself soon. But it looks more and more as though conditions will change only when the President signals a change — a change that applies the Keynesian prescription in practice as well as in preaching.

Wisconsin Report

President of U. W. Finding Himself in Difficult Situation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — For most persons it is probably difficult to summon up a feeling of sympathy about the troubles of a man who sits atop the prestigious bureaucracy of the University of Wisconsin system and draws what is far and away the most generous salary of any state official. A generous list of emoluments increases the dollar worth of his office by as much as a third.

Yet it has become obvious that the University of Wisconsin presidency which John Weaver of the University of Missouri was invited to accept last fall is a good deal less satisfying, on the one hand, and a good deal more hazardous, on the other, than he and perhaps any other aspirant could have known then.

Every university president has his troubles in getting as much money from the legislature as he believes he should have, or more particularly, as much as he must have to retain the support of his faculty without which he cannot survive for long.

Democrats Are Cool

Weaver is having those troubles. But he may probably be pardoned for wondering about the incongruity that a Democratic administration and its Democratic legislative lieutenants are showing cool reserve about the proposals for funding that the university establishment is quite earnestly convinced is its due.

Surprise here should not suggest naivete. When Republicans ruled Democrats carried the UW flag into the budget argument, denouncing Republican finance committees as flinty reactionaries, anti-intellectuals, and worse. In Madison Democrats have come to regard the campus academic community as a major campaign organization resource. For the Democrats to show a posture of holding down UW budgets is a real novelty, Dr. Weaver may be assured.

But there is a more important reason why the new president may occasionally wonder if he chose prudently when he accepted the regents' offer last summer.

His more pressing crisis is in the demand of the new Democratic regime for a merger of the UW with the state university system and the repeated warning that the proposal is not "negotiable."

Would Head System

In one of the intriguing political exploits of the year, Lucey accompanied the announcement of his revolutionary — in Wisconsin terms — design for a single higher education system with the assurance that he wanted President Weaver to command the huge consolidated enterprise.

That put the new president in the most uncomfortable position imaginable for a man who had scarcely become acquainted with his lieutenants and the buildings on his campus. To oppose the legislation would be to antagonize the new governor, at best, or to throw away the chance to become the top commander of the united system, at worst.

But to show support, or even neutrality, would as clearly risk the displeasure of the regents who had chosen him only a few months ago and who have shown such icy neutrality, such antiseptic curiosity in an endless list of questions, as to be clearly the equivalent of formal opposition.

Faces Dangerous Test

It would invite also critical doubt among key elements of his own staff, the senior faculty, and the organized alumni whose chapters have predictably reacted with alarm to the Lucey scheme to reduce the quality and prestige of the school, as their arguments have it.

The story is told that when Weaver accepted the regents' offer last year, it was with the expectation that he could spend his last decade of working life in the pleasant and sentimental atmosphere of the beautiful campus he had known in his youth, where his father was a distinguished teacher for two generations, and where he could spend restful hours of leisure in the university club telling old university tales. The reality is that prey is confronted with the most dangerous test of his life.

'Looking Forward' a Rather New Concept

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in Georgia refused to believe that, as I recently wrote, the word "scientist" has been in use only 100 years or so; the early 19th Century knew nothing of the word, which was coined by Whewell in 1840. (See the "Oxford Dictionary of English Etymology.")

It would also surprise most people to learn that the mighty word, "civilization" was not known until the 18th Century. Nobody spoke of "ancient Greek or Roman civilizations," or any other kind, for the word did not exist prior to the period of the Enlightenment.

It is hard for us to realize how some concepts that seem so old to us are really new and "modern," taking the 200 years historical view. Until 200 years ago, "civil" and "civilized" meant pertaining to the city, and distinguished the urban life from the more primitive rural societies of the time.

Hardly anyone conceived of "civilization" as a unit, as a body of laws and religion and art and public works and general ideas about mankind. There was no thing called "civilization" that kept "progressing" from savagery to refinement; no sense of an unfolding of history, where man improved his conditions, heightened his standards, and drew further away from the barbarousness of the past.

Indeed, what characterizes the "modern" mind as much as anything is our turn toward the future, whereas, until the 18th Century, most men still turned toward the past. The "Golden Age" for them was always back in the dim childhood of the race, when everything was better.

Man is basically a nostalgic creature; "the good old days" still remains as a standard for many living people, even when those days seem better in retrospect than they were in truth. Man yearns to return to the Garden of Eden, where all is innocence, simplicity, peace, and order.

The posture of looking forward instead of backward is a relatively recent one for our species. I suggest that both angles of vision are equally delusive — that the childish, naive of the people who look backward to the "Golden Age" is equalled by the bland optimism of the people who see "civilization" moving always forward, perhaps slowly, but perceptively.

If we move at all, in a true sense, it is only in cycles, not exactly repeating themselves in identical details, but rising and falling in somewhat regular rhythms; so that "civilization" and "barbarism" alternate within a given span of years. After all, the "progression" from Goethe to Hitler was only a century; from the abolition of slavery to the dropping of the atom-bomb, less than that. There are no "gardens" behind or ahead; only oases in the desert of history.

was touched for a single by Tom Haller and double by Bob Valentine to put men on second and third. He struck out Downing for the second out and had two strikes on Maury Wills before the Dodger shortstop laced the next pitch to left for the decisive runs.

Pinch-hitter Larry Stahl doubled home the tie-breaking run and Angel Bravo added an insurance tally with a sacrifice fly as San Diego came up with two runs in the ninth to beat Montreal.

Leron Lee opened the Padres' rally with a one-out double and raced home with game winner on Stahl's shot down the right field line. Stahl, who went to third when Rusty Staub fumbled his hit, eventually came in on Bravo's long fly to right.

Joe Pepitone beat Atlanta for the second straight day, leading Chicago's victory with a two-run single in the first inning to beat Bill Hands' three-hitter. Pepitone, hitting in his 14th straight game, delivered a three-run homer in Monday's 3-2 triumph over the Braves.

Reggie Cleveland pitched a three-hitter as St. Louis snapped a seven-game losing spin. Jose Cardenal, Ted Sizemore and Jim Beauchamp hit home runs for the Cardinals.

Steve Blass held Houston to six hits and Al Oliver spanked a tie-breaking seventh inning home run off Astro ace Larry Dierker as Pittsburgh won its fifth in six games.

Session to be Held Saturday Foxes-ARD Clinic Slated

The Appleton Baseball Club will hold a baseball clinic at Goodland Field Saturday. The session, which is jointly sponsored by the Foxes, the Appleton Recreation Department and the Chicago White Sox, is open to youngsters throughout the Fox Cities. The session will start promptly at 9:30 a.m. with the youngsters seated in the grandstand to hear talks by Appleton Foxes manager Joe Sparks and other White Sox farm system personnel. Boys will then be invited out on the field to their choice of positions, and all members of the 1971 Foxes team will be on hand to offer instruction and demonstrate various plays. Many attendance prizes will be awarded and all participants also will be given a ticket to treat their dads to the Foxes-Waterloo double-header at 6:30 p.m. Sunday (Father's Day). Members of the Appleton Youth Baseball Association also will be on hand to assist. Last year, more than 1,000 youngsters attended the clinic.

Bucks Making Hit in Tour Of Countries in Africa

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Members of the Milwaukee Bucks basketball team are a smash hit on their tour of Africa, with players and fans in countries where basketball is a big sport ecstatic about the visit. That's the reaction to the trip by Lew Alcindor, Oscar Robertson and Coach Larry Costello, according to U.S. Embassy cables to the State Department in Washington. The Bucks now are on their way to Nigeria, after visiting Algeria, Senegal and Mali. The cables noted repeatedly that Costello, in his contact with Algerian and Senegalese basketball coaches and officials, continuously emphasized the virtue of long hours of hard work. Fundamentals "They may think it comes easy when they watch Kareem," Costello said in Algiers. "But it's not. Kareem is adept at fundamentals, such as passing and dribbling, and this is what allows him to exploit his height and become a great basketball player." All the cables called Alcindor by his Moslem name, Kareem Abdul Jabbar. "I knew he would be tall," an Algerian basketball player is quoted as saying of Alcindor. "But I never imagined he could be so beautifully coordinated." Alcindor and Costello praised Algerian basketball players, but said they needed work on fundamentals because they did not have as much time to practice as American youths. Yesterday's Stars BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PITCHING — Reggie Cleveland, Cardinals, pitched a three-hitter as St. Louis broke a seven-game losing streak with a 6-1 thumping of the Cincinnati Reds.

Southern Cal to Meet Tulsa in World Series Test

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "The draw turns out right I would say we are in good shape," said Southern Illinois coach Richard Itchy Jones Tuesday night after his third-ranked team knocked out No. 2 Pan American 8-4 in the 25th annual College World Series. And that's how it turned out. Defending champion Southern California used four fifth inning gift runs to topple previously unbeaten Tulsa 8-4 and throw the tournament into a three-team scrap. Trade Deadline Passes
No Major Deals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The trading deadline in the major leagues passed virtually unnoticed. Not a single major deal was reported by the 24 clubs in the National and American Leagues. The only transactions Tuesday were minor ones. The St. Louis Cardinals sent Mike Torrez to the Montreal Expos for another right-handed pitcher, Bob Reynolds. Reynolds had been with the Expos' farm club, Winnipeg, in Williams said that Foy and the International League where Wert would be sent to Denver if his record was 4-2. Torrez, 1-2 they were claimed by the other with the Cards, was assigned to major league teams. Foy hit Winnipeg by the Expos. It was reported that a last-minute deal between California and Washington involving controversial outfielder Alex Johnson of the Angels might be consummated but the trade failed to materialize. The Senators did, however produce several late transactions. They cut veteran infielders Joe Foy and Don Wert and called up second baseman Lenny Randle and third baseman Dave Nelson from their Denver farm club in the American Association. Legislature to Decide Milwaukee County OKs Stadium Tax MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee County's Board of Supervisors decided Tuesday after months of debate to ask professional sports fans to help pay the cost of improving County Stadium. A 25-cent admissions tax for a capital improvements fund would need enabling legislation. The board voted 14-9 to submit the request to the state legislature. Robert P. Russell, the county's corporation counsel, said there isn't any way the financially pinched county can force its two biggest tenants—the American League Brewers and Green Bay's pro football Packers—to share the cost of improvements. New Seats The board had debated at length the prospect of having spectators help pay the cost of new seats and improved floodlighting. Some supervisors said it would be unfair to charge fans for his team and a sixth that had "bye" in it and will sit crown personally will send back and watch top-ranked Southern Cal 51-13 and Tulsa 35-11 scrap again tonight at 8 p.m. Tonight's winner meets Southern Illinois 43-8 in the second round victory over Harvard Sunday.

Black Girl Makes Debut as Jockey, Eyes Racing Career

CLEVELAND Ohio (AP) — teacher, but says, "I'd like to remain a jockey."

A 17-year-old black girl from rural Northeast Ohio added a spark to women's liberation Tuesday when she became the first woman jockey of her race to ride a horse in a regular horse race in the United States.

But whether women's liberation wants Cheryl White is another question, since her mount,

Cheryl White, 17, smiles happily after finishing her first race at Cleveland's Thistledown race track Friday. She is the first black woman jockey ever to appear in a regular horse race in this country. Riding her father's horse, Ace Reward, Miss White finished last. (AP Wirephoto)

Ace Reward, finished last, 11 lengths behind the winner in the 11-horse field of the $2,600 six-furlong fifth race for maidens at Thistledown race track here.

Cheryl, who says guys come before horses in her book, is the daughter of Raymond White who lists Ace Reward among the horses he owns and trains.

While happy, Cheryl wasn't about to celebrate, since, as she put it, "For finishing last?"

The 5-foot-3½, 105 pounder, who recently graduated from Grand Valley High School, said she intends to make racing her career, but left in doubt how long she would remain in a saddle if the right man came along.

"It depends on how far in the future it (marriage) is," she said. "If it's in the near future, I'd like to continue riding."

Tender Care

The poised teen-ager feels that women can compete favorably with men as jockeys. While admitting that men "definitely have strength" that female jockeys don't have, she points out that "some horses might ride better with the tender hands of a girl."

Cheryl said she received nothing but advice and best wishes from fans and other jockeys before the race which was watched by her family and friends.

"I talked to one or two (of the male jockeys) a couple of days before," she said. "They just told me not to be nervous. Surprisingly, I wasn't nervous."

Her courage was given a supreme test in the post parade when Performance Girl, scheduled to line up beside her, fell. The horse, being ridden by Kim Sawyer of Hemet, Calif., a 19-year-old who became a jockey last July, died.

Kim was treated for a head bump.

Shook Up

Cheryl said it didn't affect her racing effort, but "it shook me up because of Kim. I was scared she might have gotten hurt."

Cheryl said that Ace Reward "broke beautiful" but "washed out completely."

"Her shins are sore," she explained. "She ran a good three-eighths of a mile but she got tired."

Cheryl, of Rome in Ashtabula County east of Cleveland, began riding about seven years ago and has thought of being a jockey since she was a young girl. She plans to race at Thistledown the rest of the summer and then head to other tracks in October or November.

Next year, she plans to enter Bowling Green State University to earn a degree in education as a high school mathematics.

Rheumatic Fever Can Cause St. Vitus Dance

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D. brain damage — if, that is, the St. Vitus dance is from rheumatic fever. In the uncommon instances in which the symptoms are from some other cause, some brain damage might be involved. I repeat, I presume you know whether rheumatic fever is involved. If not, that should be determined. Remember that rheumatic fever is a disease that can be

The vast majority of cases of St. Vitus dance are related to rheumatic fever. If, in this case, it were from something else, I presume your doctor would have told you so.

The symptoms, as you know, are purposeless, clumsy movements of the extremities, and meaningless grimaces or facial expressions — the child can't help it.

Since rheumatic fever is so often the cause of this, special attention should be given to the possibility of heart damage which can occur either before, contracted again and again, and or after the beginning of the St. Vitus dance — heart damage is, in fact, the principal serious complication (and subsequent permanent damage) in the heart of rheumatic fever. Every precaution should be taken to prevent recurrence.

As to the St. Vitus dance, that is a temporary, however worrisome, complication. As a rule, the symptoms subside within six months or so, without any to guard against it is to prevent the strep infections. This can be done by the use of long-acting types of antibiotics (benzathine penicillin being one of the most common). Usual practice is to give an injection at approximately monthly intervals, to suppress such infections.

Dr. Thosteson

before they have a chance to get started.

Colds, and more particularly sore throats (primarily the "strep throat"), require prompt attention.

The long-term penicillin treatment should be continued for five years and sometimes longer. Considering the potential damage of rheumatic fever, this once-a-month care is well worth it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that you can't get pregnant if you're nursing a newborn baby? I was told that you don't ovulate when you are nursing and that is how people years ago spaced their children. But it doesn't sound right to me. — Mrs. P. S.

And it isn't right. It is true that ovulation does not resume immediately after a baby is born, and it may be that nursing might sometimes delay resumption, but you can't depend on it, and it doesn't last indefinitely anyway.

There are nursing mothers who have had children only 10 or 12 months apart, which should have been sufficient proof to convince whoever it was that first started the story. Ovulation can occur before the first period appears.

Note to Mrs. M. T.: You say "degenerating arthritis." We use the term "degenerative joint changes," meaning ordinary osteoarthritis, but from your description, I'd suggest asking your doctor whether you have some osteoporosis — you'll find that discussed in my book.

Consumer Protection Laws Are Broadened

BY SYLVIA PORTER

An exhaustive overhaul of our system of federal food grading and labeling is now underway at the Agriculture Department designed to give us, America's consumers, important new sources of information to use in comparing the prices and quality of products we buy.

A massive crackdown on extravagantly advertised drugs and cosmetics is simultaneously going on at the Food & Drug Administration. Another objective under legislation passed back in the 1950s is to make sure the products are not only safe but also effective in doing what their manufacturers say they are supposed to do for you and me.

A "truth in warranties" law is said to be a good bet for this congressional session. Under a bill being pushed by Senator Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., manufacturers offering warranties would be required to state the provisions of these warranties clearly and would not be allowed to disclaim implied warranties (unwritten warranties which simply, that a product should perform more or less as it is supposed to perform).

A federal "get your money back" bill is also before Congress which would permit groups of private citizens to sue either purveyors of fraud or manufacturers of dangerous products and others on behalf of all those affected by the fraud or hazard. Under one bill such "class actions" would be permitted in federal courts only after the Justice Department had successfully prosecuted the case, but under another this intermediate delaying step would be skipped.

So it goes. You need only read the pages of this paper to know that we are in the midst of a revolutionary consumer protection movement — and the movement is broadening and deepening by the hour. The drive has gone far, far beyond consumer groups and their well-known advocates and dedicated allies.

President Nixon himself is urging Congress to pass a long list of consumer protection measures ranging from the creation of a new Office of Consumer Affairs to broad new consumer protection powers for the Federal Trade Commission and Justice Department. And I assure you, there is nothing phony about this.

There are now at least 100 consumer protection bills before Congress. In addition, the list of proposals to give consumers more protection against deceptive advertising, dangerous products and inadequate information is lengthening daily.

To give you just a glimpse of the range, legislation and regulations are being proposed or pushed to:

- Provide national no-fault automobile insurance guaranteeing reimbursement to accident victims of medical and rehabilitation expenses regardless of who is at fault;
- Develop new federal product safety standards which might clamp down on such potential hazards as sliding glass doors which do not have safety glass, in a adequately shielded rotary lawn mowers, baby cribs with too widely spaced slats, ladders without non-slip feet, wringer washing machines;
- Force food manufacturers and packagers to date all foods and other perishable products;
- Require banks and other savings institutions to specify the costs and values of various services so customers can make valid comparisons between the services of institutions;
- Expand the FTC's authority over door-to-door sales so that no sale can be effective until a consumer notifies the company in writing that he wishes to go through with the deal — even if he has already signed a contract;
- Substantially improve and clarify drug labeling.

This is no more than a sampling, but just ponder its scope and variety! And at this stage, only by eliminating or drastically reducing the consumer irritants can businessmen mute these cries for ever more federal-state protection laws and regulations.

Glad You Asked That

BY HY GARDNER

Q: I've heard that actor George Sanders will remarry one of the Gabor sisters. Which one this time—Zsa Zsa or Magda? — Aretha S., Philadelphia.

A: Leave it to mother-in-law Jolie Gabor to figure a way to get George and her daughters together again—both of them. If present plans jell, Sanders will play himself in a Broadway musical about the Gabors tentatively titled "Jolie." Mama is presently providing the research and anecdotal material to Alma Weill Kessler who will produce the opus. Their idea is to co-star all three sisters, Zsa Zsa, Magda, and Eva. Other actors will be past as ex-husbands and boy friends, including the late Rubirosa. They're talking about relief induces a spir-

Carol Channing or Edie Adams to play Mama Gabor in Jolie's jaunt, both of whom do devastating take-offs on Zsa Zsa.

Q: Didn't Tiny Tim and Miss Vicki name their infant daughter Tina Tim? — James Mont, New York City.

A: No. She was named Tulip Victoria Khoury. After her father's favorite song, her mother's play himself in a Broadway musical about the Gabors tentatively titled "Jolie." Mama is presently providing the research and anecdotal material to Alma Weill Kessler who will produce the opus. Their idea is to co-star all three sisters, Zsa Zsa, Magda, and Eva. Other actors will be past as ex-husbands and boy friends, including the late Rubirosa. They're talking about relief induces a spir-

Q: What other famous people in show business, aside from George M. Cohan, were born on July 4? And did Cohan really pay a weekly "pension" to vaudevillians out of work or sick? — Augustus B., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Indeed he did. The "Yankee Doodle Dandy" had a long list of colleagues on his "payroll." Once strolling down Broadway he ran into a pensioner who bragged about how well he was doing. Cohan congratulated him—then scratched him off the list. "The least you could do," the ingrate whined, "is give me two weeks notice!" Other famed names born on the 4th of July include: Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, Alex Templeton, Gina Lollobrigida, and songwriter Irving Caesar.

Q: Who first had the idea of issuing rainchecks for a ballgame? And when? — Frank Lawrence, Syracuse.

A: The Detroit Baseball Association—in 1890.

Q: I read that in the making of the James Bond movie here in Las Vegas, actress Lana Wood tossed out of a window of three different hotels at the same time. How is that possible? — Mrs. Barbara Louise R., Las Vegas.

A: It's typical movie magic. According to Effa Cortez, Miss Wood—tossed out of a suite in the Tropicana Hotel—is shown falling from the International Hotel because its height makes the scene more dramatic. And ultimately lands in the Landmark Hotel pool. Which makes Lana the long distance, fancy diving champion of the world.

Q: Don Rickles is always so funny on everybody else's show but not on his own. Will his new series be any different? — Wanda L., Pittsburgh.

A: "You can be Don sure it will be," says Rickles. "I hope Sheldon Leonard and Sam Denoff will bring me the same success they had with their Dick Van Dyke show. It will start sometime in January—a situation comedy in which I'll play the role of an executive with a 7-year-old daughter and a lovely wife. Typical American but, in my opinion, one of the

The Streets of Fox Western Studios are deserted these days as the studio becomes the latest Hollywood landmark to disappear. It's here that such TV series as "Daniel Boone," "12 O'Clock High," and "Dobie Gillis" were made. It's being demolished to make way for a department store.

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — The Courtship of Eddie's Father has some good fun spoofing cocktail parties, the guests and the crashers. The main story concerns Tippi Hedron, the guest of honor, and her efforts to change her status from that of Tom's boss to that of his wife. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — To Rome With Love Penny meets an older boy (he's 14) who talks "flat out" and tells her he likes her. Only he gets a mad crush on Alison when he meets her. (R)

8-9 Channel 5 — Host Des O'Connor and regulars Connie Stevens and Jack D. Douglas welcome guest Dom DeLuise to The Des O'Connor Show.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — It's still called Medical Center but tonight's episode concerns student strife, a security guard who has wounded a student while being injured himself, and an attorney out for blood — the guard's Keenen Wynn plays this chap, who uses "acupuncture" on this patients, but who is murdered shortly after a scene with Jessica Walter, playing a student. Brenda Vaccaro plays a strong-willed heiress who wants to get her grandfather out of From Shiloh, but there's plenty of humor from a fine guest cast (Ann Soltern, Carolyn Jones, Brad Dillman and Edgar Buchanan). The only actors aside from Doug McClure, as Trammore Coits. It's a saga of pas. He rides into a ghost town, comeback and victory, just like pop. three, and finds himself all sports fans like.

Complete Four Words
To Win Crissy Doll

BY CAPPY DICK
A Beautiful Crissy Doll with hair that "grows" from a short bob to a flowing seep is the national grand prize in today's puzzle contest. Five of these dolls, manufactured by Ideal Toy Corporation, will be awarded, one to each young contestant whose contest entry is found to be one of the five neatest and most original correct ones received from the cities where this column is published.

The Crissy doll is 17.5 inches tall and is complete with a fashionable costume consisting of a dress with full-length sleeves and high-style shoes.
For a chance to win one of these dolls, a contestant's entry must qualify for consideration by winning a local preliminary prize which in this contest is a pocket-size game called Triangle Checkers. Five of these prizes will be awarded in The Fox Cities area, one to each young contestant whose entry proves to be one of the five neatest and most original correct ones received. Entries winning these awards will be considered again when the contest judges undertake to find the five neatest and most original from any Cappy Dick cities. These will win the Crissy dolls.

The puzzle to be solved is in the drawing above. To solve it, fill in the blanks with letters that will complete the four words, and at the same time, spell the name of a pet when read from top to bottom. When you have filled the blanks, clip out the picture and paste it on a piece of paper. Print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath it. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with crayons, paints or cutouts. Finally address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Crissy Doll Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail the entry before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Mandatory Terms for Welfare Fraud Rejected

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Controversial proposals for trading stamps to be redeemed for merchandise, liquor dispensing machines in hotel rooms and mandatory sentences for persons convicted of welfare fraud were killed in the Wisconsin Assembly Tuesday.

The welfare bill, although it had 52 Assembly co-authors, was defeated 51-47 with 11 representatives who had contributed their names to the measure helping to kill it.

"Totalitarian government is what we're moving toward here if we proposed to legislate people into jail," Rep. David Berger, D-Milwaukee, said.

Other foes said even second-degree murder carries no mandatory sentencing provisions. It costs $4,000 a year to imprison a person, a sentence which could have been earned for a $500 fraud under the bill, an opponent said.

The Vote
The Assembly refused 47-47 to approve a bill to allow trading stamp redemption for goods as well as cash.

Wisconsin and three other states, spokesman said, currently forbid stamp redemption for merchandise.

Proposals to legalize such redemption in Wisconsin have failed for a decade.

State Court Won't Rule on Madison Clinic

Anti-Abortion Law Legality a Question In Doctor's Case

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court has refused Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's request that it proclaim the constitutionality of the state's legally shaken anti-abortion law.

Warren asked the court to take original jurisdiction in the case of Dr. Alfred L. Kennan, accused of performing hundreds of abortions at a Madison clinic in violation of a statute which prohibits abortion except to save the woman's life.

The court refused Warren's request, citing what it called "the inappropriateness of the remedy sought in this court in view of the nature of the question involved."

The Kennan case, the court said, contains factual issues which would be better heard in a trial court.

A three-judge U.S. District Court panel ruled last year the state's abortion law is unconstitutional. The panel is reviewing its decision while Kennan's clinic continues functioning under federal court protection.

Warren said the federal rulings have left the status of the state law in question. He asked the Supreme Court to declare the statute to be constitutional in all respects.

"A question of law is presented to this court in what might be called a vacuum," the court acknowledged.

There has been no determination of facts "necessary to decide the question of constitutionality in whole or in part in light of the statutory definition of an unborn child," it said.

Kennan's clinic was closed by a raid April 19, a day after the U.S. Supreme Court called for a review of the federal court opinion of Wisconsin's abortion law.

A U.S. District Court ordered the state not to prosecute Kennan until the review is concluded. U.S. Supreme Court Justice John M. Harlan has turned down Warren's request to sidetrack the order.

Private School Aid May be Put To Referendum

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Assembly's Education Committee has endorsed a resolution for an advisory referendum on state aid to private schools.

The committee recommended passage of the measure on a 7-4 vote Tuesday.

An original resolution dealt with direct aid to private elementary and secondary schools. But the committee modified it to include only aid to the parents of private and parochial school children.

The committee postponed action until at the earliest Wednesday on a Senate bill which would provide about $15 million aid to parents of such children.

"Rural areas are the ones who are really going to be hurt by this bill," Rep. James N. Azim, R-Muscoda, said.

Labor and management supported the measure, which had the sponsorship of Republicans as well as Democrats, Rep. Carl Otte, D-Sheboygan, said.

On the liquor-dispensing bill, the Assembly similarly rejected a thumbs-down decision. "It's not a booze-o-matic, it's a food and beverage dispenser, a convenience for people who are staying in a motel or hotel," Rep. William A. Johnson, D-Milwaukee, argued in vain.

Even some traditional opponents of excessive welfare spending expressed discomfort in the presence of the welfare penalty bill. Rep. John Shabaz, R-New Berlin, called the measure over-rated, describing it as a bill for the politician "who wants to go home with a roll call in his pocket and say: 'See, I'm getting tough. I want to put them in jail.'"

Rep. John Slaby, D-Phillips, cited what he called a conflict in principle between the proposed bill's penal severity and the absence of a mandatory sentence for taxpayers who cheat on income tax forms.

"A cheat is a cheat, and they should both go to jail," Slaby said.

The welfare bill had been viewed as a method of discouraging persons from filing false claims or otherwise trying to get welfare aid through deceptive practices.

As it headed for defeat, Rep.

Eugene Dorff, D-Kenosha, appealed to the bill's opponents by asking: "What about the rights of the taxpayers?"

"We're not talking about the honest, deserving persons" who need welfare assistance, Rep. James Lynn, D-West Allis, said. "We're talking about fraud."

The bill called for sentences of up to five years for fraud, geared to the amount of money involved. An amendment would have allowed probation, but not suspended sentences.

Drafts Received Peaceful Send-Off From Protestors

OSHKOSH — A tiny knot of protestors assembled at the Oshkosh Post Office at 6:45 this morning when Winnebago County draftees left by bus for military induction at Milwaukee.

The demonstration was called last week to protest the army induction of Tom Tomasko, an Oshkosh antiwar activist.

Tomasko's induction has since been postponed.

One long-haired draftee gave protestors a clenched fist salute as he was about to board the bus but there were no speeches and no incidents.

Protestors dispersed as soon as the bus left the parking lot behind the post office.

Valley Chamber Urges Opposition to State Bill Concerning Taxes

KAUKAUNA — Letters are being sent to members by the Heart of the Valley Chamber of Commerce, urging them to write State Sen. Gerald Lorge, in opposition to a bill calling for a tax increase.

"The Chamber urges you to express individual opposition to tax increase and emphasize support for action limiting expenditure increases to additional revenue produced by economic growth under the present tax structure," states the letter.

Study Asked On Drive-Ins

Kaukauna Council Committee Wants New Regulations

KAUKAUNA — The City Council's legislative committee has requested City Attorney Donald Green to consult with the Fox Valley Council of Governments on methods of regulating food stands, gasoline stations, drive-in restaurants and other drive-in operations in the city.

The committee hopes to draft standards governing the use of such facilities. City officials took action after getting numerous complaints about a gasoline station being constructed on a busy intersection in the city.

Officials had no control over issuance of a permit to the firm constructing the station as all existing city regulations and zoning rules were met.

Green said, regulation of businesses of this type could be possible through creation of a special zoning classification or through "conditional use" permits for businesses to be established in areas not so zoned.

The committee is interested not only in controlling construction of such facilities, but is hopeful they could retain some type of control over them to prevent them from being abandoned and left to deteriorate once they are constructed.
